THE OLDEST JEWISH NEWSPAPER ON THE PACIFIC COAST. PUBLISHED SINCE 1856.
VOL. XXXVI. SAN FRANCISCO, CAL., SATURDAY, JANUARY 15, 1892. NO. 3

Our Portland Letter.

PORTLAND, OR., Jan. 10, 1892.
EDITOR JEWISH TIMES AND OBSERVER.

We have been having some good times recently and suppose some of your far readers would like to know what we are doing. Well, to begin with,

Miss Carrie Meyer entertained a few of her friends at an informal musicale in honor of Miss Celina Dannenbaum of San Francisco Saturday evening, January 2d. The floors were canvassed and house beautifully decorated for the occasion. All the leap year rules were strictly carried out, making the affair very enjoyable. The game of "Faba-baga" was indulged in, Mrs. Cy Gunst and Mr. Joe Dannenbaum carrying off the first prizes, and Miss Sarah Loeb and Mr. Alfred Greenbaum the "booby." After partaking of a sumptuous repast dancing was resumed until an early hour in the morning. Those present were the Misses Celina Dannenbaum, of San Francisco, Etta Sternheiser, Sarah and Etta Loeb, Eva Loewgardt, Belle Marx, Friendly, Rose Sperling, Carrie S. M. M. Rosenblatt, Tessie Myers, Minnie Wolf, Minnie Fleischner, Bernheim, A. Harris, S. Moyes, J. Neubauer, J. Hirsch, J. L. Marx, W. Loeb, J. Levy, A. Nordman, L. Prager, J. Winters, G. and S. Rosen, Mrs. Cy Gunst, Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Craner and others.

A number of friends gathered in honor of the birthday anniversary of Mr. E. Rothschild, at an informal musicale at the residence of Foreman's dancing hall, where progressive angling and dancing were indulged in. About midnight the guests returned to the family residence and partook of refreshments. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. M. Kosland, Mr. and Mrs. T. Bernheim, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Neustadter, Mr. and Mrs. Cy Gunst, Mr. and Mrs. R. Prager, Mr. and Mrs. H. Wolf, Rev. and Mrs. J. Bloch, Mr. and Mrs. M. Sternfeld, Mr. and Mrs. M. Levy, Mr. and Mrs. S. Cohen, the Misses Celina Dannenbaum, Evelyn Hamburger, Willie Cohen of San Francisco, Tessie Myers, A. Bernheim, E. Rothschild, S. Moyes, L. Prager, J. Dannenbaum, B. Lewis, E. Ryder, M. Schissel, M. Winters, F. Kosland and others.

The engagement of Mr. Lesser Prager to Miss Phoebe Saalburg of San Francisco has been announced. Mr. Prager is an honored and popular member of Portland's society and your correspondence sends you many congratulations and best wishes.

Mr. and Mrs. Ehrman have gone to San Francisco.

Miss Evelyn Hamburger has returned to her home in San Francisco.

Mrs. L. Rau and Mr. E. Rothschild have gone to San Francisco to attend the wedding of their brother, Mr. Maurice Rothschild, to Miss Hilda Shlesinger of your city.

Miss Ella J. Hirsch has returned from Baker City and Walla Walla.

Mrs. M. Kosland entertained a few friends in honor of Miss Celina Dannenbaum of San Francisco on January 10. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. H. Wolf, Mr. and Mrs. T. Bernheim, Mr. and Mrs. M. Levy, Mr. and Mrs. L. Rau, the Misses Celina Dannenbaum, Tessie Myers, Evelyn Hamburger, Edna Rau, Belle Marx, Messrs. A. Bernheim, S. Moyes, J. Dannenbaum, E. Rothschild, M. Schissel, B. Lewis, M. Winters, D. Marx, and others.

Miss Sarah Loeb entertained a number of friends in honor of Miss Celina Dannenbaum of San Francisco on January 9th. Those present were the Misses Celina Dannenbaum, Carrie and Tessie Myers, Etta Sternheiser, Rose Sperling, Sadie Oppenheimer, Eva Loewgardt, Laura Friendly, Hattie Loeb, Ella J. Hirsch, Rachel Harris, Mr. and Mrs. Cy Gunst, Messrs. A. Bernheim, W. Loeb, F. Ryder, J. Dannenbaum, J. Hirsch, J. Neubauer, S. H. Friedlander, H. Harris, F. Levy, S. and O. Oppenheimer and others.

"VERITAS"

The Jews in Russia.

The Daily Chronicle reports that in response to the protest of the Government of Victoria against the influx of a large number of Russian Jews, Baron Hirsch assured the Agent-General that his colonization society would take care not to send a single emigrant to Victorian territory, seeing that they would not be likely to meet with a welcome there. Baron Hirsch believes that there are several new countries where an agricultural population is still sparse which will receive these colonists with open arms.

No more interesting and valuable account of mysterious malady, the grip, has appeared than that which Dr. Cyrus Edison, son, the Chief Inspector of the New York Health Department, publishes in the January number of Babyhood. Dr. Edison traces the history of the grip from ancient times to the present day, describes clearly the symptoms and the mode of treatment, and furnishes valuable aids in the direction of prevention.

Railway from Jaffa to Jerusalem.

SIR, I have received by telegraph intelligence that on the 14th instant, 25 1/2 miles out of the 34 miles between Jaffa and Jerusalem were opened, and the event was celebrated by a banquet at Jaffa, the same evening, at which all the passengers were present and likewise several French and Turkish notabilities. Its history will serve as a useful lesson, not only to the Jews in England, but also to the Protestants of the United Kingdom, whether considered in a financial, political, or religious point of view. Through enormous energy and perseverance for a considerable time, Mr. Nabon, a co-religionist, obtained a grant for this valuable concession more than three years ago, but was unable to do anything with it, as no Jewish syndicate in any part of Europe would entertain it for a moment, in a financial point of view, no Government in a political point of view, or any Jewish or Protestant capitalists from a religious point of view. At last money was found in some quarter or the other to the amount of £160,000 by the issue of 8000 shares of £20 each, which were taken up by parties interested in seeing, from a financial point of view, the concession carried out. By this means the line to the extent of more than half has been now finished. And now comes the most remarkable part of the history. A very short time ago a party of the extreme orthodox Catholics clubbed together and founded a bank with a paid-up capital of £800,000, not one share of which was issued to the public. Will it be credited that their first undertaking was to launch the above railway by offering to the British and French public 18,000 debentures of £20 each—£360,000. With the total £200,000 the contractors have agreed to finish the line by May or June of next year, and there is little doubt that they will do so, being a responsible Association with a large paid-up capital. There are all manner of rumors afloat at Paris regarding the reasons which induced the Catholic Bank to take up this undertaking. Some say two prominent Governments, now in close alliance, are backing it from political motives, but the belief in inspired quarters is that ultra-Orthodox Catholics aided the undertaking with the view of making it a failure.

The great influence they will be able to exercise in future over the inhabitants of a barren region. Who can foretell the results that will follow the blessing of a railway, although some may consider it a revolution in a venerated land since the Biblical epoch. Why should not the soil again be made fertile? Why should not the land again produce mineral wealth like Australia and South Africa? I believe it will very shortly. I should have been better pleased, I own, had this undertaking been carried out by Protestant or Jewish capital either in London or Berlin. I am quite sure that we could learn many a lesson from Germany. I need only cite the case of the poor Jewish Russian emigrants and the admirable practical arrangements made both there and in the United States for the relief of suffering humanity. What has been done in England and France for the last six months? Up to the Day of Atoneement nothing but talk, and since then £70,000 has been collected in England and a miserable sum of £10,000 in France by the Alliance Universelle members. These two sums were collected without any practical scheme as to how the money was to be expended, till by a fortuitous drift Rev. Mr. Singer went to the Conference in Germany, and how a few thousands have been sent there. Eighty thousand is a cheap price to pay by English Jews for keeping, since May, their unfortunate Russian co-religionists out of England. I think some of the money might in fact have been sent to Jaffa for them, when the accounts are deplorable, and I sent in August, and continue to send, various sums there, in spite of contributing to the general fund, whose managers have no definite policy.

H. GUERDALLA
In the London Jewish Chronicle
Cheltenham, 14th December, 1891.

Sunday in London.

For a large portion of the poorer classes in London Sunday is the great trading day, a weekly fair, on which they make the bulk of their purchases. From an early hour until noon, and more or less through the day, whole streets and quarters, of the metropolis are turned into noisy open markets. All the shops are open, costermongers throng the walks, groceries, bread, meat, clothing, fish, vegetables, crockery ware, cheap jewelry, all sorts of things bought by the lower classes are cried and sold. The crowd, one half women, is impassable. It is ragged and dirty as well. The noise is deafening. In vain the church bells are ringing, they are not heard nor heeded.

At one o'clock the public houses are opened, and the thirsty crowd rushes into them for gin and beer. The squares and streets of the fashionable quarters are as quiet as any rural district. The shops in the better class of streets are all closed, except confectioners and tobacconists. Gas and sugar plums being necessarily sold on Sundays, but just turn out of Hildon in Leather Lane, or visit the new Cut, in Lambeth, and a hall a dozen other localities, on Sunday morning, and you will see and hear what no one can describe. As to the people it is the only day of the week when they have leisure to make purchases. There are a million who never go to church, drink and sleep the only day on which they like a decent meal, a whole family; the men work for a day, the women for a day, the children for a day, the old for a day, the young for a day, the poor for a day, the rich for a day, the idle for a day, the busy for a day, the lazy for a day, the honest for a day, the dishonest for a day, the good for a day, the bad for a day, the wise for a day, the foolish for a day, the brave for a day, the coward for a day, the kind for a day, the unkind for a day, the generous for a day, the stingy for a day, the merciful for a day, the unmerciful for a day, the just for a day, the unjust for a day, the true for a day, the false for a day, the pure for a day, the impure for a day, the goodly for a day, the ungodly for a day, the righteous for a day, the unrighteous for a day, the holy for a day, the unholy for a day, the blameless for a day, the blameworthy for a day, the innocent for a day, the guilty for a day, the justly for a day, the unjustly for a day, the mercifully for a day, the unmercifully for a day, the kindly for a day, the unkindly for a day, the generously for a day, the ungenerously for a day, the mercifully for a day, the unmercifully for a day, the kindly for a day, the unkindly for a day, the generously for a day, the ungenerously for a day.

Chronic Complaints.

When reading of the Hebrew character, the Luzitite, whole complaints of the people whom it seems well-nigh impossible to cure. The Republic, from America, from the Hirsch Fund, the United States, and the Hebrew Charities, complaints with the complainer himself far better than the one whom he complains of. It lies in the nature of things, as a rule, he is fitted to hold the office of a critic. That is not plainly uttered, trace the line of his criticism. Oh, if there were a man who had have any more justice come unto me!

Under the heading of "A Ray of Light," Russia for December, 1891, is a chronicle of things, showing slightly unable to raise so much money, but, one by one, the Jews compromised, and each agreed individually to provide his share in the course of some time. The Persistoy gained his point by the threat to note the appearance of any other Jew in the direction. His own appeals for redress were disregarded by the Government; but now occurred a pleasing incident. The Christian population was moved to indignation; peasants and merchants alike raised their voice against the shameful behavior of the Persistoy. They telegraphed to the Provincial Governor, and he has now despatched an official to inquire fully into the matter. When the correspondent wrote there was some hope that the guilty Persistoy would be removed from his post.

Some months ago it was mentioned that the position of the Jews at Mustapha Pachá, near Adrianople, was jeopardized through the allegation, made by a servant, that several of them had murdered a Christian butcher and had thrown the corpse into the river. Eleven Jews were arrested, and after undergoing a number of examinations they were put on their trial lately before the Criminal Court at Adrianople. The Court unanimously acquitted all the prisoners.

Does it Contain Ammonia?

The charge is being made that the Royal Baking Powder contains ammonia. We would have supposed that the emphatic condemnation of ammonia baking powders by the most eminent physicians throughout the land, and the fact of the three leading chemists of Minnesota making their report to the Senate Committee recently showing that bread baked with the "Royal" contained ammonia and the hostility now being manifested by the public against all ammonia and alum baking powders would have driven them permanently from the market.

In view of the fact that Baking Powder has become an indispensable article in every kitchen, it is gratifying to know that there are brands in the market to which no suspicion of any kind has ever attached. Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder is a pure cream of tartar powder free from every taint of ammonia, alum or other harmful substance.

Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder is reported by all authorities as free from Ammonia, Alum, or any other adulterant. In fact, the purity of this ideal powder has never been questioned.

Royal Baking Powder Has no Equal.

The United States Official Report of the Government Baking Powder tests recently made, under authority of Congress, by the Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C., furnishes the highest authoritative information as to which powder is the best. The Official Report shows the ROYAL superior to all others in leavening power; a cream of tartar powder of highest quality.

The Canadian Tests:

"The strength of the Royal is shown to be 23 per cent. greater than any other." "As a result of my investigations I find the Royal Baking Powder far superior to the others. It is pure, contains none but wholesome ingredients, and is of greatest strength."

These plates are made by an entirely new process, and are absolutely "perfect," being light, elastic and of "purest metal," and "incorporating" all "advantages" of "rubber" and all former metal plates. The "binding denture" throughout the East are using them "exclusively" with the most "satisfying" results.
To those who "cannot" be fitted by the "old process" we "guarantee" a "perfect fitting plate."

The Monarch.

A vegetable man, a butcher and a grocer were once looking for a suitable place to install themselves.

It was evening, and they had some difficulty in seeing.

"By and by, however, they came to a man's chest.

"Let's get up here," said the grocer, "and take our ease."

"It seems to me," said the butcher, "that such is the way of the world. Come, vegetable man."

"Is there room for me?" said the vegetable man.

"This is a place," said the grocer, "where there's always room for one more."

"You fellows," said the butcher, "seem to be enjoying yourselves. May I join you?"

"Sure," said the butcher, in the popular slang of the day. "Why not?"

The butcher, however, felt sincerely gratified when a dignified, well-groomed merchant, a tailor and a tax collector came along.

"Me first," said the tax collector, as he led the way laughily, followed by the others.

"Last, but not least," was perked the tailor as he brought up the rear.

At this time the man's chest was crowded. It was noticed to heave and creak.

A doctor, a dentist and a dressmaker came along. Following came two more who were a gas man, a painter, a sewer, a cook, a shoemaker and a limber.

They all stepped up and took their seats. The man's chest began to groan.

There apparently being no more room, the plumber got up.

"Gentlemen," he said, "we have come here to pass the night and, in the meanwhile, enjoy ourselves. But before doing so it will be best to elect a president. So far as I can see we are all on about a par. Isn't there one among us who has experienced?"

"I move," said the grocer, "that this chap who has just come shall be made president. We all take off our hats to him."

A delicate, refined-looking fellow made his way to the chair. He was greeted with prolonged cheers. The plumber was elected.

"Gentlemen," he said, "it seems to be unanimous that this man should preside. May I ask you, sir, what line of business you represent?"

The newly elected president bowed politely.

"Certainly," he replied. "I am a milliner."

"A milliner?"

"Yes, sir, a milliner."

"A milliner?"

"Yes, sir, a milliner."

Troubles of My Own.

A friend not long ago handed us a card bearing the significant words, "I have troubles of my own, don't tell me yours." This has become a familiar saying, but it is mixed with selfishness. There beats no heart in all this great world that is free from cares and sorrows. "Every heart knows its own bitterness," and hides its own skeleton. Wealth and riches can not stay the hand of death, and, therefore, can not still the sighs of anguish that are caused by its ruthless intrusion upon human happiness. Neither power nor position can destroy the sadness of disappointed hopes. "Uneasy rests the head that wears the crown," and royalty itself can not escape the cares, anxieties, fears and troubles of life.

Trouble is a relative term. A matter that would harass one soul almost to despair, would be as nothing to another. Our troubles are largely caused by our own actions and our surroundings, but many a time they arise from no fault of our own. We can not escape the penalty of living. So long as we find ourselves in a world of cares and troubles, we must meet them, and we may add to them, aggravate their severity or mitigate the suffering as we meet them with courage or with timidity. Many a hill of difficulty, which in the distance seemed lofty and insurmountable became a level prairie as we approached it. Many a lion of care on our pathway of life has been found chained and harmless as we came up to it. This may be said to be "borrowing trouble." There is certainly trouble enough in the most cheerful life, without borrowing any.

Into some lives come more dreary days than into others, and it is part of humanity for us to try to clear away the clouds that make them more dreary by magnifying our own cases, and exclaiming, "I have troubles of my own, don't tell me yours." Many an aching heart, bearing a heavy burden of sorrow and longing for sympathy, is grossly repulsed by the indifference of those upon whom it has a right to lean.

"Sympathy is two hearts tugging at one load." As long as we are in the world we owe it to our fellow men to sympathize with them and help them bear their burdens. The strenuous lives we lead at the present day make us regard ourselves with undue selfishness. The cares of business, the struggles for a livelihood, the burdens of wealth and the greater burdens of adversity and poverty all of which include the whole human family, press so hard upon us that we withdraw our sympathy within our souls and imagine our own troubles are greater than those of all the rest of the world.

The fact is, we are too busy to be good Samaritans. We have troubles of our own, and when we behold a brother stricken, bleeding and crying by the roadside, we like the Priest and Levite, say, "Poor fellow," and "pass by on the other side." "We are all born but not buried," and we do not know what may befall us on our journey to the Jericho of life. It is, therefore, the part of wisdom, the part of sympathy and the part of humanity, for us to be unselfish, and not repel a burden-bearing brother with the words: "I have troubles of my own, don't tell me yours."

The man who is successful is the man who is useful

Teacher—Ned, if I sold my watch to a man and knew it had no works in it, but sold it for as much as if it had, what sort of a person would I be?

Ned—You'd be a sp'endid business woman, ma'am.

Father—You are getting on in fine style, Daisy. If you keep on you'll know as much as your teacher.

Daisy—I'd know as much now, daddie, if I had the book in front of me, like she has.

ship that will ultimately prove compatible to the entire human family. The cardinal factor in the completion of a perfect religious belief is conclusively the principle regarding monotheism—the true conception of which has inspired through many centuries the highest spiritual ideal in civilized man; and the secondary or satellite, but paramount material factor absolutely indispensable in this supreme religious eye-peace and good will among religious mankind.

The Jewish religion would long ago have dwindled into nothingness had its adherents displayed the slightest indifference to this all-important precept. The doctrine of promulgating peace and good will, irrespectively, has been observed most assiduously by the Jewish race since the dawn of civilization; and because of the diligent observance of that principle have the Jews been enabled to surmount insurmountable obstructions, and also endure with divine patience the humiliations that they are unfortunately compelled to experience at the hands of other religious institutions.

Series of Institutes Planned to be Held on that Day During Fair.—Enlightenment of the People the Aim.

At Portland Sunday on the Lewis and Clark Exposition grounds will be observed in an enlightening and edifying manner. Instead of tightly closing the gates to the public all day, as was the case at St. Louis, they will be thrown open at noon, although all the machinery will be stopped and all the exhibit buildings except the Palace of Fine Arts will be closed.

One of the greatest series of institutes the world has ever known is being planned for the exposition, embracing religion, education, civics, charities and corrections, labor, science, history and women's work. Notable men and women from all parts of the world will be secured to deliver addresses, including famous exponents of Buddhism, Mohammedanism and the religion of Confucius.

COUNCIL OF JEWISH WOMEN.

The Council of Jewish Women represents the best work of the Jewish women of Portland, and probably the best work of organized women in the State of Oregon.

Besides these meetings there will be held the National Conference of Charities and Corrections; the Institute of Practical Education; and labor leaders and scholars will speak, and the convention of the National Woman's Suffrage Association, which will be conducted in connection with the Institute of Woman's Work. There will also be many gatherings of less importance, each interesting and of value.

PORTLAND, OREGON.

The Jewish population of the city of Portland has always been and is today an important factor in the growth of the city and in the development of Oregon. Among the first settlers in the State were the founders of families now prominent and honored in its history, social and intellectual life.

THE PORTLAND

LEWIS & CLARK CENTENNIAL, PORTLAND, OREGON. Opens Jan. 1st—Closes October 19th, 1925.

"Talmud Torah." All are prospective active and of influence in their special circles. The Council of Jewish Women of Portland is an especially active organization. A Guild Home has just been erected, in which the various departments of practical education are undertaken by the Council will be conducted.

The conference on religion held during this period will be addressed by men of national reputation, such as Lynn Abbott or Amory H. Bradford of the Congregational Church; Edward Everett Hale, Minot J. Savage, Robert Collyer or Sumner Eliot of the Unitarian Church; William S. Hamilton or E. Heber Newton of the Episcopal Church; Bishop McCabe, Bishop Fowler or Bishop Hamilton of the Methodist Church; Archbishop Ireland or Bishop Spalding of the Roman Catholic Church; Henry Van Dyke or Gailbert Hall of the Presbyterian Church; Emil G. Hirsch or Leon Harris of the Jewish Church; Felix Adler of the Ethical Culture Society.

At the Institute of Charities and Corrections, which will be held in connection with the National Conference of Charities and Corrections, there will be such speakers as Robert W. de Forest, Jane Adams, Florence Kelly, Edgar Gardner Murphy, M. H. Hart, S. J. Barrows, Homer Folks, Judge Lindsay and Professor Henderson.

The States of the Northwest will be asked to abandon their county Institutes next year and meet in one great educational conference at Portland. At this congress many distinguished scholars will speak, among them being President Elliott of Harvard, President Butler of Columbia, President Scherrman of Cornell, President Jordan of Leland Stanford University, President Wheeler of the University of California, Booker T. Washington, Colonel Pratt, John Cotton Dana, Melville Dewey, Herbert Putnam and Dr. Billings.

consider it a privilege to receive the benefits of this class. The industrial and educational work has proved the center about which much revolves, and it has kept pace with our growth. It has been encouraging in this part of our work to note the growing numbers of women who are increasing themselves in the active conditions and problems of the working world, for until lately comparatively few women had any conception of the needs of life outside of the four walls in which they live.

One of the most active of the Jewish business men of Oakland is Mr. S. Julius Mayer, who is now the sole representative of the old and honored firm of Floekenstein & Mayer.

The various schools and activities connected with this work, including sewing, domestic science, manual training, drawing, gymnastics, library, free reading room and kindergarten, begin during this month, and it is too soon to tell of anything except our hopes. During the past year two hundred children have taken advantage of the opportunities offered by us, and we hope as the new building unites an era for us it may be but the beginning of a newer and greater effort on our part, the results of which we may yet see in the future citizens of our State.

The past presidents of the Council have been Mrs. Solomon Hirsch, Mrs. Louis Altman, Mrs. Alexander Bernstein and Mrs. Anna Newman. The present officers are: Mrs. M. M. Blumauer, president; Mrs. M. Barnik, vice-president; Mrs. Sigmund Lichel, recording secretary; Miss F. Klein, corresponding secretary; Miss Ella Hirsch, treasurer.

CONGREGATION BETH ISRAEL

In the following we reproduce, with some slight changes, a very able article from an Eastern exchange, that treats very exhaustively on the subject, covering the full history of the congregation since its inception some forty years ago, from its small beginning through its different stages of a steady, healthy growth up to the present day, where we find it as a large and most prosperous congregation, with a temple that is, outside of San Francisco, the most magnificent structure of Jewish worship west of the Rocky Mountains.

May 26, 1861, Rev. H. Borjes was chosen chazan, and Friday afternoon, August 15th, the synagogue was dedicated to the service of "Israel's God" in the presence of a large number of the citizens of Portland of all religious denominations.

The by-laws of the Congregation Emanuel of San Francisco, Cal., were adopted until such time as the following were drafted. President, Leopold Mayer, vice-president, M. Mansfield; treasurer, Abraham Frank; secretary, B. Simon. Trustees—Jacob Mayer, H. P. Bloch, Samuel Levy, S. M. Lyon.

The congregation decided to begin divine service without delay. The president was empowered to call upon any of the members to act as reader until a permanent chazan could be secured, and a committee was appointed to select a suitable temporary place of worship.

On April 12, 1888, the corner stone was laid in the presence of a large and interested assemblage with appropriate and impressive ceremonies conducted by Rabbi Jacob Bloch, and on June 28, 1889, dedicated by the said minister.

Perhaps the best known of our co-religionists in Portland is Hon. Joseph Simon. Mr. Simon was born February 7, 1841, in Besenlein, Hesse-Darmstadt, Germany. He is the son of David Simon and Elise Leopold; came to Oregon in 1857, and was educated in the public schools of Portland; entered the law office of Mitchell & Dolph in 1870; was admitted to the bar in 1872, and has been practicing law ever since.

Mr. Simon was a delegate to the Republican National Convention at Minneapolis, 1892; at Philadelphia, in 1900; member of the National Republican Committee, 1892-1896; member and President of the Portland Police Commission; elected to the United States Senate, 1898, to fill vacancy for term ending March 3, 1903; served in second session of the Fifty-sixth Congress and in the Fifty-seventh and Fifty-eighth Congress.

When Mr. Sichel came to America his first position was a salesman in a New York store, but hearing of the opportunities that Oregon afforded young men he determined to seek his fortune on the Pacific Coast.

A NATIONAL CHARITY.

A Splendidly Appointed and Managed Institution for the Cure of Consumption, at Denver, Col.

In this age of the too often sectional, racial and other media of charity it is refreshing to write of one that knows no such limitation; one that is striving in the field that is attracting the attention of very many of the great men of the world, viz., the cure of consumption.

The Main Building of the National Hospital for Consumptives.

The initial idea was to treat as many cases of indigent sufferers as the funds would possibly permit of, always looking to the accomplishment of the great end of the institution.

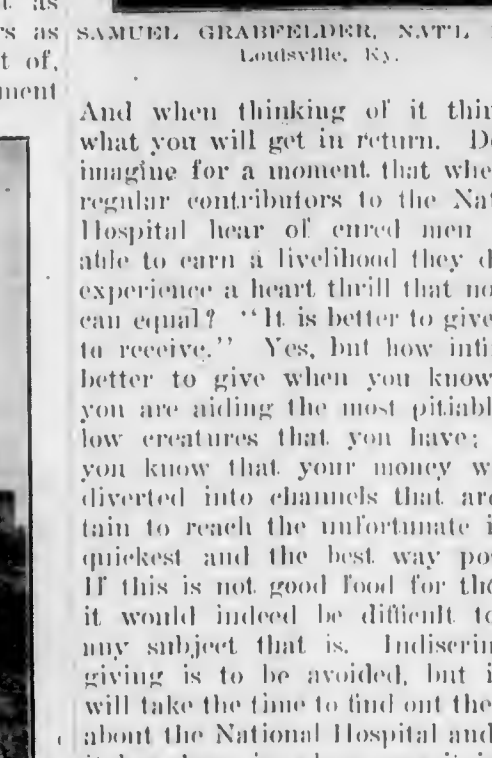

The first "class" of patients—if one may use the term—began treatment in December, 1899. At that time the hospital was fully equipped to care for the number of inmates. Results came quickly and there was a heart quickening amongst those who had pinned their faith to possibilities where honest endeavor was combined with skill and patient endeavor.

Samuel Grabfeld, National Secretary of the National Hospital for Consumptives.

From its last annual report one gleams the fact that all over the land it has the support of Hebrews, and the executive committee has left no stone unturned to install every device that the human family that may aid the afflicted.

And when thinking of it think of what you will get in return. Do you imagine for a moment that when the regular contributors to the National Hospital hear of cruel men being able to earn a livelihood they do not experience a heart thrill that nothing can equal? "It is better to give than to receive." Yes, but how infinitely better to give when you know that you are aiding the most pleasurable fellow creatures that you have, when you know that your money will be diverted into channels that are certain to reach the unfortunate in the quickest and the best way possible.

Alfred Muller, National Secretary of the National Hospital for Consumptives.

On occasion, of "Christians as well. It should have the support of every citizen, for its charity is as broad as the flag that protects us all, as deep as the abyss from which sin may be rescued, and as high as the pinnacle to which the heart of man may soar.

"THE SPIRIT OF INQUIRY."

Rabbi Montague N. A. Cohen Congregation, B'nai Israel, Sacramento, Cal.

The world is made up of all sorts and conditions of men and women. Some there are who are actually with the world, while there are others who are merely of it.

We will put on our thinking caps for a brief while and consider that spirit of inquiry inherent in all of us who exert our thinking capacities.

We will not concern ourselves with those dilapidated individuals who do not think at all, who neglect the capacity to think, who are content to be led by others.

What, then, prompts inquiry? There comes a time in the course of the life of an individual when self-consciousness or individuality is sensed and aroused.

quest until his conscience, the God-given faculty within him, tells him intuitively that he is correct, and then along this path he will further continue his inquiry.

A word to those who think wrongly: I must here admit that I do not hold a brief for absolute truth. I do not think anybody does.

Inquiry into religious thought has been the source of interminable trouble and has been the cause of greater and more bitter enmities than any other.

We will not concern ourselves with those dilapidated individuals who do not think at all, who neglect the capacity to think, who are content to be led by others.

This can only be promoted by the means of free inquiry. Free inquiry, if properly applied, is a most important privilege of the human mind.

There are people, however, who will examine and inquire into everything in existence. They will broaden everything, but when they come to matters of religion they stop short.

greater truths. Some of them confirm the older faith; others, again, shatter them. Some people stand in need of certain aids to religion; other people require something different which shall stimulate their religiosity.

Judaism does not prevent inquiry, for inquiry can no more be prevented than growth. If we remain still we kill.

We juggle with two terms, orthodoxy and reform; both claim to be right on their own merits, each one to the exclusion of the other.

It was when Judaism was misunderstood by its adherents, and also on account of the persecution which the Jews endured, that the spirit of Judaism in its truest sense was lost.

Once more we come to our elementary truth, the freedom of the soul, the emancipation of our intellectual and spiritual ego.

There are people, however, who will examine and inquire into everything in existence. They will broaden everything, but when they come to matters of religion they stop short.

THE GHETTO AND ITS INFLUENCE ON JEWS AND JUDAISM.

We are all familiar with the word "ghetto" as applied to that quarter of our city where mass the hundreds and thousands of Russian immigrants.

It is interesting to trace through history the influences that have united in bringing about our modern Ghetto.

For certain, through laws passed limiting the relations between the Jews and Christians, that Jews lived in Spain before the fourth century, in England as early as the seventh, and in Germany in the eleventh century.

Throughout the dark medieval days, church councils passed many laws which were incorporated in the civil legislation of the Jews.

The Jews had always, and very naturally, settled near one another. They needed one another for support and protection; they had a common past, they had a common life, and it was among their own that they could find the greatest amount of sympathy and understanding.

The Nurses' branch of the Hospital, under the supervision of Miss Rose M. Higgins with her corps of able assistants, deserve our grateful commendation. Five nurses passed their examination and graduated from the school, and, at this date, there are twenty nurses in training. Our Training School continues to advance in its standard of work, and of the nineteen nurses graduated since our school was founded, all are in great demand in the practice of their profession and do honor to their Alma Mater.

It is with the greatest of pleasure that I refer to the noble acts of our Ladies' Auxiliary—their unabated zeal in performing their self-imposed tasks, visiting our patients, ministering to their comfort, and looking after the many and varied interests of our Hospital. We thank them for their labor of love, so unselfishly performed, and are likewise under deep obligation to them for constantly replenishing the linens, etc., required in the Hospital.

To the Medical Board of the Hospital, consisting of Dr. Julius Rosenstirn, D. C.—G. Levison, Dr. Leo L. Meisinger, Dr. S. S. Kahn and Dr. Robert D. Cohn, who, with Dr. A. S. Adler, our examining physician, have had the direct charge of the work entailed in the care of our patients, we wish to express our sincerest thanks and appreciation for the excellent results obtained.

In this connection we are pleased to say that the consulting, visiting and clinical staffs have been augmented during the year by the appointment of Dr. Arthur Weiss, Dr. Alfred Newman, Dr. H. Spiro, Dr. E. Meyer and Dr. J. E. Hamilton. Also to these gentlemen, as well as to Dr. Jacob Schwarz and Dr. E. K. Smith, our internes, we are grateful for their kindness in responding to the many calls made upon their valuable time and knowledge, where their eminent services were required.

We also wish to acknowledge the excellent work of Miss Bertha Cohen, our Superintendent, and Miss Rose M. Higgins, our Matron, and their painstaking interest and untiring devotion to their many duties.

Our warmest thanks are likewise due to Mr. Joseph Hymann, who at his own expense has installed a complete X-Ray instrument in the Hospital, and to Mr. I. W. Hellman, Jr., who has furnished ample funds wherewith to purchase necessary instruments. These magnificent gifts have enabled us to provide our operating room with an equipment second to none in the city.

It is my painful duty to record an irreparable loss to our institution. During the past year the hand of death has robbed us of our highly esteemed and much beloved Fellow-Director, Mr. Sigmund Fenchtwanger, who passed away in the prime of manhood, and his untimely end leaves a vacancy not easily filled.

Not wishing to tax your patience any longer, I refer you for further details to the special reports of our officers, which will more fully enlighten you as to the condition of our organization.

Our Hospital building is much too small and should, at no distant date, be replaced by an entirely new and fireproof structure in order to fill the rapidly growing needs of our community. Until we have a large endowment fund, we shall be compelled to pursue our conservative course with the meager means placed at our disposal; and, therefore, we must ask all generously disposed people to cooperate with us and do whatever is in their power to promote our financial interests.

In conclusion, I wish again to thank each and every one of our Directors, who have faithfully attended to the arduous duties which our Society devolves upon them. Under the guidance and protection of the Almighty, we trust that its scope will be enlarged and its benefits increased.

Respectfully submitted,

A. HAAS,
President.

A RETROSPECT OF LOS ANGELES

The appearance and with it the activity of the Jews of Los Angeles are practically coincident with the appearance of California as one of the stars in the constellation of the American Flag.

While many of the early settlers in Southern California have long since passed to their reward, there are some men and women in Los Angeles who to-day, in the "sere and yellow leaf" of their honorable career, are enabled to recall their own experiences of full fifty years, and prove themselves valuable and trustworthy witnesses of the marvelous growth of Los Angeles from a Jewish standpoint.

Primitive indeed was Los Angeles, the city of the angels, when the first Jews set their feet upon its soil; it sounds like a tale hard to believe in the face of the magnificent, metropolitan-like appearance of this city to-day, when one of our good old ladies, respected and beloved by all who know her, tells us that when she came here a blushing bride, and when the slow railroad had finally stopped, she, on alighting from the primitive coach, seeing no signs of civilization, asked her husband: "Where is Los Angeles?"

The earliest Jewish settlers were pioneers in more ways than one, called upon to endure hardships and privations, to fashion themselves to the conditions which a virgin settlement presupposes. But with that perseverance, amidst untoward circumstances, so characteristic of the children of Juda, those pioneers in the land of the setting sun devoted themselves with might and main to help in the upbuilding of a region which in the light of its present aspect, so well justified the best efforts of the stoutest hearts and bravest arms.

What the Jews did for Southern California and for the City of Los Angeles, as citizens, belongs to general history;—in these columns it is proposed to discuss as briefly as possible their activity in the promotion of Jewish ideas.

As nearly as reliable data are at our disposal, the first concerted act of the Jewish pioneers of Los Angeles took place about fifty years ago, when the few Jews then living here formed the Hebrew Benevolent Society, for the purpose of assisting the strangers that, attracted by the genial climate of this latitude, sought a home here or hereabout.

Some poor, ill-advised patient, suffering from a disease, less curable than now, exchanged his Eastern home for this region, only to find his grave here, but no—it was only when the necessity arose, the necessity, suggested by the poor unfortunate struggling for breath, that the members of the Hebrew Benevolent Society directed their attention to that important mandate of the Jewish religion: "The Burial of the Dead"; and, receiving from the city authorities a grant of a piece of land for cemetery purposes, the "Home of Peace" became one of the cares of the Society.

It were wrong, however, to infer from these statements that the care for the living, for their spiritual welfare, was disregarded by the pioneers; indeed, the desire of their heart prompted them early to secure a place where they might worship the God of their fathers in accordance with the customs and traditions of Israel; and the very limited number of the settlers alone was responsible for the seeming neglect of this duty. And it was therefore with a great deal of gratitude that they arranged for a public service during the solemn days of Rosh Hashanah and Yom Kippur. Simple as these services of necessity were, they lacked none of the fervor and devotion which are the truest expressions of sincere worship.

In the absence of reliable chronological data, it must suffice to say that this manner of worshipping God on one or two days of the year, did not for any length of time satisfy the spiritual hunger of the Jews of Los Angeles, and very soon we find them assembled in a rented hall, suitably fitted up, Sabbath after Sabbath for prayer and instruction. About this time the Order of B'nai B'rith, recently founded in New York, had reached with its propaganda the Coast States, and "B'nai B'rith" became the slogan hereabout. Not only was a lodge of the order established here under the name of Orange Lodge, I. O. B. B., but a congregation, under the name of "Congregation B'nai B'rith," was called into existence, and while the Lodge after some years relapsed into inactivity, and with it the interests of the order were neglected, to be fully and splendidly revived in the past five years, the Congregation took firm hold upon the Jews, and bravely went on "from strength to strength," until to-day, after nearly forty-three years of its existence, it occupies a proud and commanding position in the sisterhood of congregations, and looks back upon a series of triumphs and achievements second to few, if any, of her sisters.

The history of Congregation B'nai B'rith from its inception, when the members worshipped in a rented hall, sometime in 1860 to this day, when they own, free of debt, the beautiful shrine that adorns the corner of Ninth and Hope streets, is a bright chapter in the progress of Israel in America. Much credit is due to the Rev. A. W. Edelman, the first regular Rabbi of the congregation. He was a faithful shepherd, and uniformly conservative in his religious views. In his retirement now, he enjoys the respect of the entire community, and all who know him delight that the evening of his life is so pleasant and serene. Time forbids to dwell at greater length upon his life and his activity, while in office, and since his retirement. He was succeeded by Dr. Emanuel Schreiber, Rev. A. Blum, Rabbi M. G. Solomon, and the writer, who for now nearly six years occupies the pulpit of the congregation.

From the rented hall, the congregation eventually moved into their own building on Broadway, near the City Hall, to vacate it when the growth of the city suggested a quieter location, which, after the Broadway property was disposed of, was found in the present location, some eight years ago.

It is strictly within truth that Los Angeles Jewry has kept pace with the steady and almost marvelous growth of the city. While the Jews enter prominently as factors in the civic, commercial and industrial development, the interests of Judaism are likewise safeguarded, and show a gratifying progress. The religious education of the young is provided for by a large Sunday school, the cause of clarity is efficiently served by the original Hebrew Benevolent Society, by the Ladies' Benevolent Society, by the Sewing Circle, by the Kaspars Cohn Hospital, by the Los Angeles Lodge of the I. O. B. B., and other minor agencies.

The Kaspars Cohn Hospital, now three years in existence, is the result of the generosity of the well and favorably known Mr. Kaspars Cohn, and of the indefatigable labor of Mr. Jacob Schlesinger. This gentleman had long advocated the reestablishment in our city of a hospital for the poor sick, but he was discouraged with the plea that this place could not support such an institution. Nothing daunted, however, he persisted in his agitation, and when Mr. Cohn came forward with the gift of a building for the purpose, the other Jewish citizens of Los Angeles fell into line and in September, 1901, the hospital was opened, and has done incalculable good since then.

About the same time, too, the sentiment that had grown for years to secure a burying place for our dead, that was more in keeping with the advanced ideas of the time, became crystallized by the purchase on the part of the congregation of thirty acres of land in a desirable location, and thither have been conveyed the bodies from the cemetery that had become unfit for its original purpose.

It might be interesting to perpetuate in the columns of this significant issue of THE JEWISH TIMES AND OBSERVER some of the recent signs of our growth and activity, but the time urges, and forbids any extended remarks; suffice it to say that the interests of the Order B'nai B'rith have been revived in Los Angeles Lodge, which promises well for the order and its high and holy mission that intellectual work is being done in several directions and that young and old are cultivating social and religious fields. Nor can I close without mentioning at random a few of the men and women who have reflected and still do reflect credit upon the religion of our fathers. Among the oldest Jewish residents of this city I mention Mr. M. Kremer, who, in his eighty-second year, preserves the health, vigor and elasticity of many a man twenty-five years his junior. Mr. S. Lazard, "Uncle" Sam Prager, prominent in Masonic circles, and Mr. Caspar Behrendt, are three hale and hearty gentlemen of advanced years, enjoying the evening of their life in well-merited rest. Mr. Harris Newmark, Mr. Leopold Harris, and Mr. H. W. Hellman are still more or less active, and are too well known in California to need any extended remarks. These three gentlemen, together with Mr. Kaspars Cohn, have been and are yet closely connected with the interests of the congregation, the last mentioned succeeding five years ago Mr. Hellman in the presidency of the congregation.

The younger business men of Los Angeles are prominent in their several lines and others are forging ahead with every prospect of becoming recognized and valued for probity of character and for intelligent progress.

And now permit the writer to express the hope that the upward and onward career of California may experience no retarding, that the interests of Judaism may keep pace with the general progress, and finally that in this proud procession THE JEWISH TIMES AND OBSERVER may lead its growing hosts with increased success and with credit to its high aims.

S. HECHT.

On November 10th, 1899, the Rev. Dr. S. Hecht arrived in Los Angeles, California, where he had been called from his former field of activity at Milwaukee, Wisconsin, to assume the spiritual leadership of Congregation B'nai B'rith, and since that time he has been a positive factor in the religious and social life of the community.

Dr. Hecht comes from that school of modern theologians who believe that their usefulness to their Congregation makes it necessary for them to keep thoroughly abreast of the times and to take an interest in all things affecting not only the religions, but also the civic and social affairs of their communities.

Dr. Hecht is recognized and acknowledged locally as the representative and spokesman for his people upon all matters affecting Jewish interests, and in this capacity he has been chosen many times to fill different positions of honor on municipal committees and commissions,—notably as Library Commissioner. Being a profound scholar and a book lover, he has discharged his duty with so much zeal and efficiency that he is universally recognized in this city as the most valuable member on the Library Commission.

Dr. Hecht is loved and respected, not only by all of his communicants, but also by his brethren of the cloth in this city, who are an exceptionally able body of brilliant, eloquent, high-minded and liberal Ministers. It is a matter of pride and gratification to the members of Congregation B'nai B'rith that among such a corps of scholarly and influential Ministers, their Rabbi occupies an enviable position of respect and esteem, and fittingly represents his people.

Dr. Hecht takes a deep interest in the two leading Jewish charities of Los Angeles, the Kaspars Cohn Hospital and the Hebrew Benevolent Association,—in both of which associations he is a Director.

I. O. B. B. IN LOS ANGELES.

In October, 1899, Lucius L. Solomons, then First Vice-President of District Grand Lodge No. 4, visited Los Angeles for the purpose of instituting a B'nai B'rith lodge in that city, where B'nai B'rith matters had been lying dormant for many years. Under the influence of his impressive eloquence, a spirit of enthusiasm and zeal was aroused among the younger element of the Jewish population in favor of the B'nai B'rith order and of the humanitarian purposes which it represents. About forty members signed the Charter, among the first of whom was S. G. Marshutz, the father and founder of Los Angeles Lodge, and its Charter President.

One of the first principles established by Los Angeles Lodge was that at no time in the future would the system of sick benefit insurance ever be introduced into this Lodge. A very decided objection was also entertained by the members to the then existing system of fraternal endowment, or life insurance, and when the subsequent action of the Grand Lodge made the endowment feature optional instead of compulsory, it was decided by Los Angeles Lodge 487 that they would have no members on their roster who sought from the B'nai B'rith order any pecuniary advantage. In other words, they wanted the members to feel that they were contributing toward a great benevolent movement in the most voluntary and unselfish spirit. That policy has remained as the great foundation-stone upon which Los Angeles has rested ever since.

Under the successful administration of the following Presidents: Messrs. S. G. Marshutz, H. W. Frank, Marco H. Hellman, George N. Black, Isaac L. Lowman and Sol. Schiff, this splendid body has continued to grow and prosper in point of membership, activity and usefulness, until it numbers now approximately 170 members. Never a month passes but what there are some initiations. During the year 1904 eighty-seven new members were admitted to Los Angeles Lodge,—offset, of course, by some renewals and resignations.

Ever since the Lodge was instituted the members had cherished an ambition to be housed in their own quarters. Toward the close of the year 1903 this ambition was realized, when Past President S. G. Marshutz erected and leased to the Lodge for a term of years a beautiful, new, modern, fraternal hall, with club room accessories, consisting of a well lighted, well ventilated Lodge room, billiard room, card room, reading room, kitchen and lockers, etc. The hall and club rooms have been handsomely fitted up at an expense of $1500, the amount being subscribed among the members in sums of from $10 to $250, respectively. In addition to many donations, the members have contributed to the library a large number of books and an assortment of the best periodicals, also a number of framed pictures of interest to them as members of a B'nai B'rith Lodge, while the ladies have kindly donated a number of pillows, cushions, banners, etc. The Lodge hall is separated from the club rooms by sound proof walls. The club rooms are open to the members of the Lodge every night in the month, and the members gather there evenings for social intercourse. The playing of any game of any kind for a money stake is absolutely prohibited.

The hall is reserved for Los Angeles Lodge on Tuesday nights, and is sub-let to other Lodges on other nights.

A number of social events are given by the Lodge during every year, such as lectures, smokers, grand balls, etc.

Los Angeles Lodge 487 has done some very fine literary work,—papers on timely and pertinent subjects being freely volunteered by the members. The average attendance at the regular meetings ranges between fifty and sixty. There never has been a meeting of this Lodge that ever failed of a quorum.

Los Angeles Lodge 487 has done a great deal of benevolent work in a quiet way, practically ten per cent of its gross receipts being devoted to various worthy charities.

In addition to having the handsomest, best furnished and most cheerful fraternal quarters in the city, Los Angeles Lodge occupies a unique position in District No. 4, being the only Lodge in the District that has not a beneficiary member of any kind on its roll.

The Lodge stands firmly committed to the higher ideals of the order and is doing an immense amount of good among a class of our young people who are not identified with a Synagogue and who therefore cannot be reached through that medium.

The officers for the year 1905 are as follows:

President, Sam G. Levy; Vice-President, Meyer Lüssner; Monitor, Sol Schiff; Assistant Monitor, J. H. Marks; Treasurer, A. Kremer; Recording Secretary, Morris Fienkenstein; Financial Secretary, H. G. Elkeles; Warden, L. Gans; Guardian, M. Pehr; Trustees, S. Maas, I. L. Lowman and M. Lustig; Physician, Dr. E. M. Lazard.

THE TRAGEDY AT HOLLYWOOD. We were a large house-party at Hollywood that winter, numbering eighteen guests, besides the family, and the two Austrian girls—Mary and Evelyn—were the life and soul of us.

Everybody laughed except Miss Anstruther who declared that "those Austrian girls were always trying to put themselves forward and make people talk about them."

"In three days, I will return, and claim you from your harsh, unnatural father."

"My lady Isabel, who until that moment had covered in her corner, almost unconscious with fear and horror, gray eyebrows of his, Sir Percie stamped out of the hall in which we were now sitting, called for his horse, and went."

"The door opened very slowly, and a white figure glided into the center of the room. It was turned around the bed, and it seemed to be gazing into the corner where the light between Sir Percie and Capt. Wilbraham had taken place."

"The white apparition turned slowly toward the bed, and Mary Anstruther and I looked on as if we were watching a miracle."

"No; that's a little too appropriate," cried Mary. "Come, Mrs. Abbott, tell me who you are, or off with you! I don't want to get out of bed into the cold; but if you won't answer me I must do so."

"My lady Isabel was but a little bruised to-morrow morning," laughed Mary Anstruther. "And in five minutes she was asleep again."

"The door of it was open, and on her knees upon the threshold was Mary Anstruther, with the blood-stained, upturned face of a golden-haired girl in a white bed robe on her lap.

"The door of it was open, and on her knees upon the threshold was Mary Anstruther, with the blood-stained, upturned face of a golden-haired girl in a white bed robe on her lap.

ALL'S WELL THAT ENDS WELL. There lived a man once wealthy and prominent, who had a daughter exceedingly beautiful and virtuous.

"The door of it was open, and on her knees upon the threshold was Mary Anstruther, with the blood-stained, upturned face of a golden-haired girl in a white bed robe on her lap.

THE OLDEST JEWISH NEWSPAPER ON THE PACIFIC COAST. PUBLISHED SINCE 1855.

SERGEANT HARRIS AND THE RABBI. On the roster of the 22d U. S. Infantry...

On the following day as he lay back on his bed... The wounded soldier lay on his pillow...

"No, it's not religion I'm looking for now... He was a pack peddler, and when I saw that old fellow standing on the table in the divan...

"What's that you're saying? You now know the story too well... "Where is my home, did you say? Over in the East, in New York city...

"No, I never wrote a letter home since I ran away... "Did you ever realize," says the Republic of that city, "that Boston is the one particular place among the great cities of Europe and America where the Jews have been so successful in financial circles?"

"What is your father's name?" quietly asked the rabbi, looking steadily at the man in the bed... "I'm glad if you can give me a queer look, please."

look at that serious face, so pale and so awed... The astonishment of Rev. Dr. Shulman Harris in being summoned to the Catholic Hospital was as great as the priest's.

"This is Rabbi Harris," said the priest to Sergeant McManus by way of introduction... "The dying soldier wanted to be read something in his eyes. There was a slight appeal there. He understood. The dying soldier wanted to see the Rabbi."

"It was a pretty tough job," began the Sergeant, "but I did it. I did it for you, and I did it for the boys who were with me. I did it for the boys who were with me. I did it for the boys who were with me."

"Where is my home, did you say? Over in the East, in New York city... "Did you ever realize," says the Republic of that city, "that Boston is the one particular place among the great cities of Europe and America where the Jews have been so successful in financial circles?"

"What is your father's name?" quietly asked the rabbi, looking steadily at the man in the bed... "I'm glad if you can give me a queer look, please."

"The money invested in Massachusetts savings banks was viewed as devoid of financial ability... The Puritan banker and his blue-stock associates have said: 'The Irish are not possessed of the qualifications fitting them for banking careers.'" with a strange catch in his voice, answered "Abraham Levy." "Then your name is not Thomas McManus, but—"

"I know my parents will be glad to learn that I died a Jew. And if you will say a few prayers for me when I am no more, it will make the blow less heavy for them to bear."

"A convulsive shudder passed through the dying hero as he fell back upon his pillow, a slight moan came from his lips, and a shiver ran down his back."

"An interesting and novel feature of the convention was the exhibition of rapid blackboard shorthand writing by Robert F. Gallagher, which followed the paper."

"Did you ever realize," says the Republic of that city, "that Boston is the one particular place among the great cities of Europe and America where the Jews have been so successful in financial circles?"

"The money invested in Massachusetts savings banks was viewed as devoid of financial ability... The Puritan banker and his blue-stock associates have said: 'The Irish are not possessed of the qualifications fitting them for banking careers.'"

The money invested in Massachusetts savings banks was viewed as devoid of financial ability... The Puritan banker and his blue-stock associates have said: "The Irish are not possessed of the qualifications fitting them for banking careers."

The accusation, a severe one, surely cannot be directed against the men of Jewish blood. That would be giving the lie to history past and present. The money invested in Massachusetts savings banks was viewed as devoid of financial ability.

Membership in the Boston Stock Exchange is limited to one hundred and fifty members. The Jews can claim but one. And the Jewish member was admitted to membership by the friendly aid of a Celtic member.

Turning these statements over and over it must be admitted that the success of the Celt as compared with the Jew in the battle to obtain recognition in the banking world, stamps the Celt as a man of more courage and more tenacity than the Jew.

It is a well-known fact that the war which is being held in the East, but is held in this city by the Superior Court reporter, Robert F. Gallagher, who established it by writing offhandedly 200 words a minute before the California State Stenographers' Association at their convention in 1900 at the Palace Hotel.

AMUSEMENTS. The Grand Opera Season at the Tivoli continues an enormous success. The following are the programs for next week: Tuesday night, "Il Barbiere di Siviglia," with Tetzlaff, Hazzli, Grognetti, Dado.

The Alcazar's 475th consecutive week, a record unapproached in this country, even by the oldest established vaudeville companies. The Alcazar, next Monday what is likely to be its most brilliant and pleasurable season.

Among the attractions to be found in the Chutes Theatre, coming week are Stephen Fitzgerald and Company, presenting their best sketch, "The Welcome Guest," the three De Loews, comedy crochets of great renown, Richards and Richards, singing duo, James Hawley, a monologist of repute, Lena Clifton, the singer of illustrated ballads and the Anamniacope, showing many modern and interesting moving pictures.

Allen as Elena. Over one hundred people are required. Sunday matinee resumes Oct. 3. To follow Monday, Oct. 9, "What Happened to Jones," with Leonora Kirwin, the new ingenue and subterfuge will make her best appearance yet.

"Arizona," which will appear at the Grand Opera House for one week, beginning next Sunday matinee, is, primarily, the best play Augustus Thomas has written, and is infinitely better than any other neighborhood-dramas of "Alabama," and "The Missionary."

The diminutive comedian, Franz Ebert, formerly the leading light with the "Liputians," and lately featured with Anna Held, will make his first vaudeville appearance in this city at the Orpheum.

We frequently hear the remark of observing Christians that we have grown secularized. The remark is no more perceptible among the mass of Jewish men with whom they come in contact. Do these remarks meet us only? Is it any different among the Christian Protestants? ... In accordance with these facts, the dominion exercised by the Protestant hierarchy is neither a splendid nor an enviable one.

THE NORTHWESTERN MUTUAL LIFE—THE POSITION AND PROSPECTS.

Following the serious controversies that are going on in the East regarding the standing, management and methods of the large life insurance companies, it may not come amiss to give our policy-holders some information regarding the Northwestern Mutual Life, and we can best do so by quoting from various sources the comments made by prominent men, including Justice Brewer of the United States Supreme Court; Zeno M. Hild, Commissioner of Insurance for the State of Wisconsin; and the various officials connected with the company, which are as follows:

We desire first to call your attention to the following extract from the Annual Statement of the Northwestern, covering the business of 1903: "The Northwestern has never been involved with other financial institutions nor had any connection whatever, either as a company or through any of its officers, with any other line of business. The entire attention of the officers of the company has been confined to the business of the company, they believing that only by so doing could they perform their duty to the company and permanently conserve the best interests of its members."

Also the following extract from an address made to Northwestern agents at the Annual Meeting, July, 1905, by President Palmer: "I want to say to you here—I say it emphatically—this $201,000,000 is worth every dollar that it represents. It is made up of clean, safe, solid assets, there is nothing in it to be thrown out. There has been no trickery in buying these bonds. There has been no dickering with the securities of this company for the interests of an officer. No investment has ever been made and none exists today in whatever outside of the interest he feels as an official in transacting the business. They are not members of any syndicate. Never while they live and are officers of the company will they go into any arrangement by which the assets of the company, or any part of them, may be manipulated for the purpose of putting money into their individual pockets. We know that it is just as true today as it was nineteen hundred years ago, when the sentiment was uttered by Divine Lips in the Land of Gallilee: 'No man can serve two masters.'"

In an address at the recent Annual Meeting, Chief Justice Brewer of the United States Supreme Court, one of the Trustees of the Northwestern, states as follows: "There is a prayer of this kind, 'Help us, O Lord, to do all things with an eye single to Thy Glory.' That prayer expresses the thought which should run through the mind and conscience of every one charged with a trust. He should bear in mind that it is his duty to discharge everything in connection with that trust, with an eye single to that trust, and the moment he surrenders the interests of that trust to his own or his friends' private pecuniary gain, he is false to his trust, and in the true sense of the term is guilty of grafting."

First Vice-President Markham makes the following comments: "No officers of the company, member of the Executive or Finance Committee, agent or employee, has ever had or now has any financial interest, near or remote, in any of the securities or assets of this company. This company has no interest in any trust company, bond company, bank or any other corporation or association of any kind."

In harmony with the above statements we give the following extracts from the official report of the Wisconsin Insurance Department, brought out by the examination of the records of the Northwestern, dated March 6th, 1905: "The finding of the examiner in charge discloses the fact that the several departments of the company are economically conducted with ability and integrity. The Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Company has not a bank stock or a trust company, no industrial enterprises; every investment is in accordance with the laws of this state. It may also be interesting to our policy-holders to know that the Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Company has over $700,000,000 of insurance in force, and that in the State of California alone it has over $20,000,000 of insurance in force, and that of our prominent men are carrying large lines with this company. It is not uncommon, in fact it is rather the practice of good business men, after taking a policy and testing the company for a few years, to come back and reinstate and induce their friends and relatives to do the same. One or two instances are cited by way of illustration. The Levering family of Baltimore, Md., are large insurers. Twelve members of the family are carrying thirty-seven policies in the Northwestern, aggregating in all $252,500 of insurance. The first two policies were taken by Joshua and William T. Levering in 1829; others have been added from time to time as they have decided to increase their insurance. Another remarkable instance is the amount of insurance in the Northwestern held by the house of Strouse Brothers of Baltimore, Md. Twenty-three members of this concern are carrying insurance in the Northwestern, in all fifty policies, aggregating $358,000, and while none of these men are carrying very large lines of insurance, it speaks louder than words of the satisfaction of these people who have had an opportunity of testing the strong points of the Northwestern."

Among the mountain peaks of the Sierra Nevada, one hundred and fifty miles east of San Francisco, is the most wonderful gorge in the world—the Yosemite Valley National Park. The Valley is seven miles long, varies from one-half to a mile in width, and is walled in almost completely by cliffs rising on each side from 3,500 to 6,000 feet above its green floor. Waterfalls, innumerable, awe-inspiring domes, spires and pinnacles, magnificent Big Trees—all tend themselves to make this Valley the most beautiful and wonderful in the world. The best way to reach the Valley is by the Raymond-Wawona Route through the Mariposa Big Tree Grove. Finely illustrated books concerning this beautiful work of Nature can be had of any agent.

"The Two Kuni Lemels" a comedy in four acts as produced by Glickman's company of Yiddish players at the Alhambra Theatre on Monday night was greeted by a large and enthusiastic audience and was well received. The comedy, which was given its first presentation in this city, is full of witty sayings, and ludicrous situations and as produced by this company of favorite Yiddish players kept the audience in a continuous roar of laughter from the rise in the fall of the curtain. Mr. Glickman and Mr. Shengold in the two principal roles as the Kuni Lemels appeared to better advantage than at any time heretofore. A string list of plays is announced for the remainder of the week. On Friday night a grand production of "The Jews in Morocco" is to be given with a big cast. At the Saturday matinee "The Jewish Emigrants," which has been produced here before with much success is to be given. "Gabriel," the play in which this company made its first San Francisco ap pearance and made a big hit, will be presented for the last time in this city. Sunday matinee, that roaring comedy of life in New York, in four acts, entitled "The Bowery Tramp" will be the bill. A distinct novelty is promised for Sunday night in the first presentation in this city of "The Jew in Roumania." The above list of attractions should draw big houses, which will undoubtedly be the rule, judging by the advance sale of seats. It is the intention of Glickman's players to give at least five performances weekly, hereafter.

The popular and always welcome drama of Southern life, "In Old Kentucky" will open at the Grand Opera House next Sunday matinee. This play is certainly one of the most remarkable melodramas ever written. Time—that frightful ravager of dramatic life—does not harm it, for it always plays with it. It stands in the front rank, and holds its own with the best of the modern productions. The charm of the play lies in its perpetual freshness and vigor. Its heart interest is simple and direct, its scenic attractiveness does not depend upon any passing fad, and its most thrilling scene has for its foundation that most stirring contest, the horse race. There is nothing temporal or fading in the whole play. For this reason it is as good today as it was yesterday, and as good yesterday as it was fifteen years ago, when it was first produced. The tale of the wild flower maid of the Kentucky mountains, Madge Bryerly, is nearly as well known as that of "Uncle Tom's Cabin." The same wise judgment in furnishing an adequate production and a competent cast that has always marked the presentation of "In Old Kentucky" will be maintained by the owner of the play as long as it is kept on the boards. Monday night, October 30th, General Wallace's mighty play, "Ben-Hur" will begin a season, which will positively be limited to two weeks.

Grand Opera continues to flourish at the Tivoli which is crowded at every performance. The repertoire for next week will be: Tuesday night, "Il Barbiere Di Siviglia"; Wednesday night, "Carmen" with Alice Coleman in the title role. Miss Coleman is a San Francisco girl who has just returned from Europe where she has been studying with the best French and Italian masters. She has also sung with great success in Brussels at the Theatre Royal. She is a daughter of Mr. Charles Colman and a niece of Mr. M. A. Gunst. Thursday night "Sonnambula" will be repeated by special request with Tetrazzini, Bazelli and Gravina, and Friday night "Otello" will be the program with Petrella, Grasse, Angioletti and Salassa in the cast.

melodrama, "Tracked Around the World," is to be the attraction at the Central Theatre for the coming week, commencing with next Monday night. In "Tracked Around the World" a clever story is told of the hunt for a diamond robber and abductor by a distinguished detective. Of course, Herschel Mayall will be the "Sherlock Holmes." Edna Ellsmere will be the sweetheart who is abducted; Henry Shurmer will be the diamond thief; James Corigan and Lillian Elliott will look after the comedy roles and George P. Webster, George O. Nicholls, True Boardman, Clara Sinclair and the balance of the Central favorites will be suitably cast. Fifty extra people will be used in the production and many actors and actresses have been engaged. Among the new comers will be three pretty and talented California girls, Grace Goodall, Lolita Robertson and Marion Badger, who will have good roles in "Tracked Around the World." The scenic effects will be on a massive scale and scenes will be shown of Chicago, New York, San Francisco, Paris and Madrid, Spain, with a bull fight in progress. The final performances of "The Whitecaps" will be given this Sunday afternoon and evening.

The Alcazar has one of its most important new offerings in "The Crisis," dramatized by Winston Churchill from his own delightful romance of our Civil War times. It will be the first production by any stock company of the play that brought enormous profit and popularity to James K. Hackett and was no less successful when Isabelle Irving took it upon tour. It is the story of the young Boston law student who settles in St. Louis during the stormy period when the sparks of rebellion were almost ready to burst into flame, and of the proud, high spirited Southern beauty intensely loyal to her sectional sense of right. There is an intensely dramatic scene, where the young Northerner outbids the Southern belle for possession of a multi-colored girl auctioned off in the slave mart. The purchase takes nearly every dollar he has in the world, and it is made that he may defend the principle of personal liberty and set the slave material. Deal Edsall and Arthur Forbes, two of the latest recruits to the vaudeville ranks from the legitimate stage, will make their first appearance in San Francisco, presenting Miss Edsall's one act comedy, "The Two Rubies." Arthur Prince, the ventriloquist whose equal has never appeared in San Francisco, will, for his second and last week, have a change of chat with his little friend "Jimmy" and Bert Leslie, Robert L. Dailey and their little company will continue to evoke roars of laughter with their classic in slang

"Going Abroad." The Melani Trio of Italian street singers and instrumentalists, will change their selections, and Browning and Wally, the novel aerial artists, and Orpheum Motion Pictures, showing a series of surprises, will complete an excellent program. "The Twelve Broomstick Witches," the latest New York sensation, will be seen at the Orpheum shortly.

RACHEL WON THE PRIZE.

Written for the Jewish Ledger by A. D. Diamond.

Mr. Abraham Kalmon sat in the spacious drawing room of the Borogolsky's mansion awaiting the young lady he had called to see.

He had met Miss Dorothy Borogolsky a few months before at a summer resort in Colorado, and as she was very stylish and at the same time an agreeable young lady he had become quite intimate with her. This was the first call he made since his return to the city, and he was wondering how she would receive him. He did not send his card to her, because he wished to surprise her—pleasantly—he hoped.

"Be sure and keep out of the way," he heard a sharp voice say. "I would be ashamed of myself if any one saw your pretty figure." There was no response to that injunction, and a moment later Miss Dorothy entered.

She was a tall, queenly young girl, who seemed born to command, and yet there was a soft bewitching light in her brown-black eyes.

"Miss Dorothy," he said, rising up. "Mr. Kalmon," she exclaimed, "is it possible that it is you? I am so happy to meet you once more."

They greeted each other, they settled down to a quiet little chat, and Mr. Kalmon was very much surprised to find how swiftly time had fled, when he arose to go. She invited him to call again, and he accepted her invitation, and called frequently. He was her escort to the opera, theater, ball, in fact to every place of amusement. In that way several months passed. He was meditating to ask Miss Dorothy to accompany him through life.

One evening he called rather earlier than usual, and went into the music room. Somebody was playing a quaint little song on the piano and singing in a soft, sweet voice. He had no doubt as to who the somebody must be, so he silently stepped over to her side. "Miss Dorothy," he said gently. The figure on the stool turned round suddenly. "Fardon me, I am only Rachel," she said. "Fardon me," he returned, "I have made a mistake. I was quite sure that it was Miss Dorothy, as I was not aware that she had any lady visitors. I am not a visitor," she responded, "I am Dorothy's sister."

"Thousand pardons," he said, "I am so sorry." He was wondering why Miss Dorothy had never spoken about the younger sister. It could not be that she was indifferent to her, it must be that Miss Dorothy's heart was too full. But from what he knew of her, she might be suffering from her thought.

"My sister, Dorothy, will be here in a few moments," she said, and she walked out of the room.

After a few moments, Miss Dorothy entered, she apologized for keeping him waiting so long, and she seemed well satisfied. He rose out of his seat, and in this she had no objection, Miss Dorothy had never spoken about the younger sister. It could not be that she was indifferent to her, it must be that Miss Dorothy's heart was too full. But from what he knew of her, she might be suffering from her thought.

gave a mysterious smile and muttered: "Much good your surprise will do you if Miss Dorothy is as fractious as usual." He did not notice her remark, but kept on the even tenor of his way.

He put his hand on the door knob and then he hesitated. He did not wish to act the roll of a listener, but he had caught the mention of his own name, and he had curiosity to listen. "Do you love Mr. Kalmon?" he heard a soft voice ask. "I am glad some one has asked that question for me"—he had himself to be sure, but he waited impatiently for Miss Dorothy's answer. "Love," she said, "who has anything to do with that old fangled notion now; Mr. Kalmon is a rich Northern gentleman, a man of the world, and he has traveled extensively. What more do I require?"

"But he may require something else," Rachel responded warmly. "He seems so good, that I do not know how I can help but love him; I would worship him, sister." "Indeed perhaps you have fallen in love with him yourself. If you have, I wish you could have a few of the remarks he has made about the ridiculous ways and manners you have shown while talking with him once. I declare it serves you right, though, if you persist in talking with whom you are forbidden." "Hush, Dorothy," said the mother's voice, "how can you hurt Rachel's feelings in such a cruel, uncalled manner? See, she is crying, poor child; she has trouble enough, without you adding a grain more, and to think how that trouble came upon her. Once for all, Dorothy, I tell you, you must give up going to that ball. If you take the money for another dress, we cannot have Rachel deserted." "She can wait," was the pettish response. "Mr. Kalmon will surely soon propose, and then I will be off your hands." "I am shocked," was the reply.

But Mr. Kalmon waited to hear no more. He had, in fact, heard too much of Miss Dorothy's future anticipations. "Save it," he said, "This will be a special plan of Providence. Say nothing of my call," he continued, addressing the servant, whose ill-concealed delight betrayed that she knew what was going on there.

He slipped a bank note in her hand. "You are a gentleman," she said, "and I am glad that you have found out what Miss Dorothy is. She often strikes when she is mad. And has forbidden her to see you, or to talk with you. The mistress wants to take her to the country, to rest and reform, but she won't let them, until she is married." "Which will never be," he growled to himself, "if every one thinks as I do now."

He went home and down and undressed. He made up his mind at last that he was a rich bachelor, and had no other love, he was rich and undressed. He made up his mind at last that he was a rich bachelor, and had no other love, he was rich and undressed.

"You are a gentleman," she said, "and I am glad that you have found out what Miss Dorothy is. She often strikes when she is mad. And has forbidden her to see you, or to talk with you. been out in society with him, and knew nothing of his preference. "Shall I tell you?" "If you please," she said, "my affliction has made me appear ridiculous in your eyes, you need not mock me." "You misunderstand me," he said gently, "I mean what I say. I love you too dearly to mock you. I want to marry you, and to take you to Europe with me, and get you cured there." She hid her face and wept, not tears of sorrow, but rather of joy. The great good gift of life, which she had doubted, had come to her at last. "Do you mean me?" he asked, and though he obtained no response, he was satisfied.

He left her. She went to her own room and he went home. Miss Dorothy waited that evening in vain for Mr. Kalmon, and wondered what could have detained him. He did not call the next morning, and she was feverishly impatient. But Mr. Borogolsky, who he returned home to dine, was all radiant with smiles. "Mr. Kalmon came to see me this morning," he said, and Miss Dorothy gave a little pleasant start.

"Did he propose?" she asked. "Yes, but differently from what I expected. He asked for Rachel's hand, not yours." "Rachel? Impossible! You have made a mistake," she cried. "None whatever. He wants to marry her immediately, and take her to France." "And you know it," Dorothy exclaimed, turning to her sister. "That was who your visitor was last night, you sly mix; you have been lying to me, you have." "Hush!" said her father, sternly, "last night was only the second time he saw poor Rachel. He told me all the circumstances himself. He called to see you yesterday morning, and overheard you venting your rage on your mother and sister. He was disgusted with you, and rightly so, because Rachel in proportion to the contrast between you. Please take warning."

"She sprang from the table and ran to her room, where she had a violent attack of hysterics. The prize she had tried to win was lost.

Miss Borogolsky gathered her sick darling into her arms and wept. She was not afraid to trust her future in Mr. Kalmon's hands. He was too noble to be anything else than a kind husband.

A few weeks later Rachel was married and started for France.

A year later she came home perfectly restored to health and strength. Dorothy was still single, but gave no words of welcome to her sister, Miss Kalmon.

The Jews of Japan

The Jews of Japan who came from and are natives of it. For last are very poor and make every year a journey to live a wretched life. Many of the Arabah Jews are professional "senior Jews" and in most instances are greatly respected by the Chinese, American and European Jews, and not their own nationality, who are still poor.

ROYAL Baking Powder

It makes the most delicious and healthful hot breads, biscuit and cake

FREE FROM ALUM, LIME OR PHOSPHATIC ACID

Alum baking powders are unhealthy. Do not use them for raising food under any circumstances. So detrimental are alum baking powders considered, that in most foreign countries their sale is prohibited. In many States in this country the law compels alum powders to be labeled to show that they contain this dangerous acid, while in the District of Columbia, Congress has prohibited the sale of all food that contains alum.

Alum baking powders are sold to consumers at from ten cents a pound to 25 cents for 25 cents, or 25 cents a pound, and when not branded may generally be distinguished by their price.

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL. FRIDAY, MARCH 2, 1906. THE OLDEST JEWISH NEWSPAPER ON THE PACIFIC COAST, PUBLISHED SINCE 1855.

STORY OF A JEWISH PILGRIMAGE TO AMERICA.

Avrenele, upon the gate—and don't forget to close it behind us. Avrenele rushed over to the wooden gate, opened it quickly, and, as the carriage came alongside of him, he said:

"Grandpa, there's an entertainment to-night at the chapel. May I go?" "No, my child," replied the old man.

"But all the children from school are going," said the little boy, following the carriage. "No," declared Aaron firmly, "let them go—but you stay home."

"They have ice cream and cake, and singing, and—" pleaded the child with tears in his voice, but the old man interrupted him.

"Avrenele, when the Jews will have an entertainment, then you'll go. Now close the gate, and go to grandma—she's all alone."

The commercial traveler said something to his two friends in English, and the old man did not understand; but he addressed Aaron in Yiddish.

"I am astonished, Mr. Shapiro, that a wise man like you, a man of your age and experience, should impart such dangerous seeds to a child. Do you know that such untruths and isolation breeds anti-Semitism among the Christians?"

"Avrenele, when the Jews will have an entertainment, then you'll go. Now close the gate, and go to grandma—she's all alone."

Aaron nodded, and beckoning to his eight-year-old grandson, said:

"Avrenele, upon the gate—and don't forget to close it behind us. Avrenele rushed over to the wooden gate, opened it quickly, and, as the carriage came alongside of him, he said:

The commercial traveler said something to his two friends in English, and the old man did not understand; but he addressed Aaron in Yiddish.

One of my daughters was killed in bed, together with her newborn babe—yes, a child five days old—a little brother of Avrenele. And her husband was also killed—in the following day. One of my sons, Zaimen, is even now somewhere in Manchuria in this crazy war. God knows what has become of him. Yes, I have lived through many storms—

The old man was quivering, and his words broke off into a sob. "But, thank God, this is no Russia," declared the commercial traveler.

"I know, I know, we must indeed bless God that we are here. But Avrenele must know that he is a Jew." He pulled the reins and cried to the horse: "Get up! Get up!"

"But if you are so strict with the little boy, why did you allow your daughter to attend the party to-day, although she was the only Jewish girl invited?" persisted the Jewish son-in-law.

"The tone in which these words were uttered indicated plainly that he did not feel like speaking on this subject any longer. At last his carriage became silent, lost in sad meditation, and the plump little woman, pressing her nose closely to her bosom, wept.

"Now the boarders in the carriage had begun to get up, to about 'Murrah' and one of them started to sing in a jarring falsetto: 'We are here because we are here, because we are here; We are here because we are here—'

"Then, after a brief pause, he cried out with bravado: 'Chorus! All in! All together!' And all the passengers in the second carriage joined, at the top of their voices: 'We are here because we are here; because we are here; We are here because we are here—'

"Second verse!" shouted the leader, and flourishing a horn, went on: 'We are here because we are here, because we are here—'

The boarders by Aaron's carriage had begun to get up, to about 'Murrah' and one of them started to sing in a jarring falsetto: 'We are here because we are here, because we are here; We are here because we are here—'

"You laugh when you see him trembling whenever he has to go into the barn at night. Oh, it is an evil laugh—and evil laughter! The Kestelans have done it—people who have staged every Sunday—they killed his father in the army that time, serving the Czar and the Fatherland. It was at night that he heard the news of how his father was slain, and since then, night is full of terrors to him. The slightest rattle of a leaf frightens him in the dark."

EDITORIAL NOTES

Rabbi Karl Frieleman, of Nyregyhaza, Hungary, died recently at the age of 75. The funeral lasted from 7 a. m. to 4 p. m. and twenty rabbi delivered addresses.

The position of the Roman Catholic Church to the Jews, which becomes broad whenever the Jews suffer in Greek Catholic countries, is shifting when also speaks within her four walls. So the priest Hislinger said recently at a convention of the German Catholics in Posen.

At the charity office in Paris serious disturbances took place several times in January. Owing to the influx of Russian and Roumanian refugees the number of dependent families has risen to 5,000, and the organization finds itself unable to cope with the emergency.

If the Jewish clergy of this city would be persistent in their denunciation of the Jewish followers of Christian Science and deny those fanatical rights of Jewish fellowship when requested to do so, we feel sure the effect would be good.

The hundreds of Jewish women who attend Christian Science meetings and seek the aid of Christian Science practitioners for imaginary or real ailments, still pretend that they are Jews at heart, and the praying to Jesus is simply a part and parcel of the practitioners' mode and manner of curing.

All the sensation of publicity is due to Dr. Wise, and he stands convicted of lack of delicacy, in the least. There was no public necessity for taking the reporter and the Associated Press into his confidence and giving them the benefit of his correspondence with the trustees of the temple.

While it is true that Cupid knows no creed, says B. M. in the Owl, it must equally be taken into consideration by those who favor intermarriage that Cupid is a mischievous youngster, and not to be relied upon as a final settler of mooted questions.

"Would you think," said Dr. Maurice Fishberg, medical examiner for the New York United Hebrew Charities, "that any Jew who was lucky enough to be out of Russia at the present time would want to go back?"

The German Reichstag had on the day of its adjournment before Christmas vacation a little Judaenae. Socialism and its anti-patriotic influence was the topic of the day, and our old friend Stoeker delivered a speech on the blindness which hath befallen the German people and hath alienated them from the love of God.

The charity office in Paris serious disturbances took place several times in January. Owing to the influx of Russian and Roumanian refugees the number of dependent families has risen to 5,000, and the organization finds itself unable to cope with the emergency.

WILD TALK.

At an installation of officers in a subordinate lodge of the Free Sons of Israel, held recently at Rochester, N. Y., says the American Israelite, Louis Hess, a Grand Lodge officer, is reported to have said, in effect, that the feeling against the Jews in this country needs only a spark to set it aflame, and that, if it is allowed to continue, the Russian horrors will not stand beside what may happen in the United States, and Grand Master Tausig is said to have spoken in a similar strain.

All the sensation of publicity is due to Dr. Wise, and he stands convicted of lack of delicacy, in the least. There was no public necessity for taking the reporter and the Associated Press into his confidence and giving them the benefit of his correspondence with the trustees of the temple.

INTERMARRIAGE.

While it is true that Cupid knows no creed, says B. M. in the Owl, it must equally be taken into consideration by those who favor intermarriage that Cupid is a mischievous youngster, and not to be relied upon as a final settler of mooted questions.

Cupid was never known for wisdom but stands rather for folly; the little fellow is all impulse, all passion, robustness, almost animalism. The very fact that he is a boy, not a man grown to full proportions, indicates his incontinence, and so he or she who follows Cupid also enters into a life fraught with danger.

At the charity office in Paris serious disturbances took place several times in January. Owing to the influx of Russian and Roumanian refugees the number of dependent families has risen to 5,000, and the organization finds itself unable to cope with the emergency.

JEW IN AUSTRIA.

In spite of anti-Semitism and the increasing number of apostasies Austrian Jews are found in prominent governmental positions. So, the Neue Freie Presse of January 20th contains a notice of the death of Dr. Markus Tschiasny, Ladegerichtwart, who is to be buried on a different basis, then all we will, and Jew and Christian can affiliate by marriage without harm to either; but let us wait until Jew and Christian mingle more truly on social grounds, the grounds upon which husband and wife must stand.

All the sensation of publicity is due to Dr. Wise, and he stands convicted of lack of delicacy, in the least. There was no public necessity for taking the reporter and the Associated Press into his confidence and giving them the benefit of his correspondence with the trustees of the temple.

Edwin Booth a Jew.

The Jewish method of co-optation to its ranks is still going on. Many Inman Barretts, writing in the N. Y. Globe, attempt to show that the Jew tragedian, Edwin Booth, was of Jewish descent. He says: "I would state that my authorities for the assertion that Booth was a Jew were a number of theatrical people and a very dear friend of my father, a Jew from Charleston, S. C. When first my statements were questioned in your columns I wrote immediately to Mr. O. for confirmation of my belief, and I quote from his letter as follows: "I do not know that the great Junius Brutus Booth (the elder) was a Jew, but I feel pretty sure that they were descendants of Judah, one of the sons of Jacob. About seventy years ago, when Junius Brutus Booth (the elder) was playing in Charleston, a Jew named Solomon Moses was so charmed with acting that he went to see him play every night, and after the performance, wanted to see him come out through the stage door. One night as Booth came out Moses heard him use a Hebrew word. "What!" said Moses in surprise, and grasped the great actor's hand. "You must be my guest," said Moses, "the hotel is not good enough for you. The next day Booth and his wife became the guests of Sol Moses and his wife. This was before the time of rail roads, and as Booth was about to start for New Orleans, Moses persuaded him to leave Mrs B. on his horse, and Booth the younger was born. "Nathau Levin married Sol Moses' daughter, and he (Levin) and Edwin Booth became bosom friends. After the Charleston earthquake, Edwin Booth sent a check for $1500 to Mr. Levin. This is all I have to go on when I say that by birth the Booth family were Jews. He neither Edwin nor Joe Booth (Joe was his bosom friend) ever professed Judaism. A highly intelligent Jew told me the Booth (the elder) was a Jew and that his name originally was Calanya, the Hebrew Booth, in the wilderness the Israelite dwelt in booths.

Many of us miss the joys that might be ours by being a Jew. I don't know the exact opportunities for happiness which he is devoid of another's. We lose a great deal in the joys of living by our hereditary occupying the small pleasures that come to us every day, instead of longing and wishing for what belongs to others. We do not take any pleasure in our own modest horse and carriage, because we long for the automobile or victoria that some one else owns. The edge is taken off the enjoyment of our little home because we are watching the palatial residence of our neighbor. We can get no satisfaction out of a trolley ride into the country or a sail on a river steamer, because some one else can enjoy the luxury of his own carriage or yacht. Life has its full measure of happiness for every one of us, if we would only make up our minds to make the most of every opportunity that comes our way, instead of longing for the things that come our neighbor's way.

HIGH CLASS DRUGGISTS AND - OTHERS.

The better class of druggists, everywhere, are men of scientific attainments and high integrity, who devote their lives to the welfare of their fellow men in supplying the best of remedies and purest medicinal agents of known value, in accordance with physicians' prescriptions and scientific formula. Druggists of the better class manufacture many excellent remedies, but they are the men to deal with when in need of anything in their line, which usually includes all standard remedies and corresponding and many useful accessories and remedial appliances. The earning of a fair living, with the satisfaction which arises from a knowledge of the benefits conferred upon their patrons and assistance to the medical profession, is usually their greatest reward for long years of study and many hours of daily toil. They all know that Syrup of Figs is an excellent laxative remedy and that it gives universal satisfaction, and therefore they are ready to sell millions of bottles annually to the well informed purchasers of the choicest remedies, and they always take pleasure in handing out the genuine article bearing the full name of the Company-California Fig Syrup Co.-printed on the front of every package. They know that in cases of colds and headaches attended by biliousness and constipation and over-eating, that there is no other remedy so pleasant, prompt and beneficial in its effects as Syrup of Figs, and they are glad to sell it because it gives universal satisfaction. Owing to the excellence of Syrup of Figs, the universal satisfaction which it gives and the immense demand for it, imitations have been made, tried and condemned, but there are individual druggists to be found, here and there, who do not maintain the dignity and principles of the profession and whose greed gets the better of their judgment, and who do not hesitate to recommend and try to sell the imitations in order to make a larger profit. Such preparations are sold under the name of "Syrup of Figs" or "Fig Syrup" and of some practical concern, or fictitious fig syrup company, printed on the package, but they never have the full name of the Company-California Fig Syrup Co.-printed on the front of the package. The imitations should be rejected because they are injurious to the system. In order to sell the imitations off on a customer a preparation under the name of "Syrup of Figs" or "Fig Syrup" which does not bear the full name of the California Fig Syrup Co. printed on the front of the package, he is attempting to deceive and mislead the patron who has been so unfortunate as to enter his establishment, whether it be large or small, for if the dealer resorts to misrepresentation and physicians' prescriptions, and should be avoided by every one who values health and happiness. Knowing that the great majority of druggists are reliable, we supply the immense demand for our excellent remedy entirely through the druggists, of whom it may be purchased everywhere, in original packages only, at the regular price of fifty cents per bottle, but as exceptions exist it is necessary to inform the public of the facts, in order that all may decline or return any imitation which may be sold to them. If it does not bear the full name of the Company-California Fig Syrup Co.-printed on the front of every package, do not hesitate to return the article and to demand the return of your money, and in future to be one of the better class of druggists who will sell you what you wish and the best of everything in his line at reasonable prices.

LINCOLN, THE CHOSEN OF GOD.

BY RABBI JOSEPH KRATZKEFF, D. D. It was on February 11, 1861, forty-five years ago this day, that Abraham Lincoln left Springfield, Illinois, to proceed towards the capital of the Nation...

I have no doubt but that the prayers thus asked for were fervently lifted up for the president-elect, and not by his townpeople alone but also by millions of his supporters throughout the troubled land.

Such a man was Lincoln. A man more honest than he never lived. Rivalled his sincerity, but never equalled his. He was not a man of words, but a man of deeds.

Men in public office have been misled, have been unwisely, but never one like Abraham Lincoln. There was no more surprised man in all the land than he was when the choice of President fell to him.

SHREVE & COMPANY. WILL CLOSE MARCH 17th 1 P. M. AND WILL OPEN THEIR NEW STORE POST STREET AND GRANT AVENUE. Monday, March 19th. AT 9 A. M.

Home Baking with ROYAL Baking Powder.

The United States Agricultural Department has issued (and circulates free) a valuable report giving the results of elaborate experiments made by and under the direction of the Department, which show the great saving from baking at home...

It was not long, however, before Mr. McClure discovered, as the nation discovered later, that it was God who had chosen Lincoln, that when the people cast their vote for him, they but expressed the will of Providence...

There had been insolent, and reckless men long, and as too terrible a cost. Had the issue been squarely met, had the voice of God instead of the voice of politics been spoken, had there been no compromise, no measures, in short, had there been a Lincoln in the presidential chair fifty years earlier, there would have been no need of a de-vastated home, paralyzed industries, impoverished people, no need of brother's hand being raised against brother, no need of six hundred and twenty-five battles being fought, in which blood flowed like water, and which widowed and orphaned and darkened sens of thousands of homes.

Others before him had seen the enmity that threatened the nation as clearly as he saw it, and had yearned for a redemption as sincerely as he. Long before him, Patrick Henry had said the same question "gives a gloomy prospect to future times," and George Mason had written to the legislature of Virginia "the laws of posterity," and Jefferson had said: "I tremble for my country when I reflect on God, on my own guilt, and on the guilt of the nation. My justice cannot sleep for ever," and Madison had said "where slavery exists there the republican theory becomes false, and the danger and despair, he felt it and acted.

Others dared not risk their political future, he dared to risk even his life. It was his innermost conviction that one nation, under one government, without slavery, had been divinely ordained, and he was resolved that not a state should be struck from the union by treason.

Engagements. The opening of the Religious School of the Congregation Anshei Israel will hold a Parish festival Sunday afternoon, March 18th, at the Columbia Theatre. Mr. E. J. Stark, the cantor of this congregation, has written an opera for this occasion, and the dramatic management is under the able direction of Miss Josephine Collins. The plot of this play is founded upon the biblical story "Queen Esther," and while somewhat of a humorous character, it contains certain dignity, however, is constantly a pure comedy. The entire music is an operatic melody taken from grand opera. Several hundred melodies. Over one hundred children are participating in the performance. An orchestra of twenty instruments has been specially engaged, and Cantor Stark will be at the keyboard. Admission will be by invitation only and seats may be reserved on presentation of card at Sherman & Clark, music store, Thursday, March 15th, and Friday March 16th.

Walking Coming In Vogue.

Americans are just beginning to learn, what the English people have known for a century, that the most independent and interesting outing consists of walking.

Rusklin said the joy of travel is in inverse ratio to its speed, and experienced railroad travelers are in sympathy with his dictum. The railroad has the bad habit of sneaking into a town or city by the most uninteresting route.

When it comes to a consideration of the way in which singers (especially of the same kind) were each other, we have some curious revelations. The writer was lately at an "at home" at which three sopranos each sang a solo and obtained in turn the approving plaudits of the listeners.

FUN.

Boston is so original in all its ideas that it is a wonder it would ever have anything that is common. A drapery house advertises lawn dresses that will wash. Isn't it the business of a laundress to wash?

"No," said an old maid, "I don't miss a husband very much. I have trained my dog to growl every time I feed him, and I've just bought a clothing store dummy that I can scold when I feel like it."

"I have heard a great deal about the 'Subway Air,'" said the caller at the music store. "Are there any words that go with it?"

"Why don't you go to work?" asked the farmer. "I'm busy," said the tramp. "I've applied to several railroad, but they won't have me."

"What's your line?" asked the man. "I'm a farmer," said the tramp. "I've made a few steps with the farmer a close second."

Gresham—I suppose Grantham is the politest man I ever saw. Barlow—Think so? Gresham—Yes, I do. What do you suppose he did the other day? He actually asked a woman what time it was, pretending that he wanted to see his watch by herself!

Mr. C. R. Dalton, 711 Valencia St.: Please send me another one of those Haynes Mattresses. The one I received from you last month is just what I have been trying to find for the last twenty years. I have learned to adjust myself to a hard or soft bed, but the Haynes Mattress adjusts itself to me.

(Continued from page 5) sat here a moment ago. Oh, the power he has if he could only have a chance. You remember in the Gymnasium he was at the head of his class. Well, he kept that place all through, and worked besides to support himself, and so at last he reached the University. But there he was refused. Why? Why? She leaned far forward and her slender right hand gripped the edge of the table till the blue veins stood out.

She shook in a violent fit of coughing. At once her brother hurried back and "rapped the cigarette round her shoulders; he spoke soothingly in Yiddish. As soon as she could stop coughing she glanced up into his anxious eyes with a quick, gay reply which made him laugh at once. Then she rose and bade me goodbye, and walked away. She walked slowly. Her brother kept his arm right around her.

One evening six months later, back in my own town, I was walking home just before midnight. I walked fast, for the cold rain had been falling since morning. The trees were dripping rivulets down on the dead autumn leaves below. The rain was changing to sleet. I was in a hurry. I was heavy and bleary. I shivered. In the distance, down the wide, muddy street, a few little paper lanterns began to flicker. They flickered larger, nearer, and became funeral lanterns carried by three women and some children. In front walked four men slowly, bearing a rough board coffin between them.

What do you mean? "What do you mean?" I asked. "Oh, it's a Jew funeral. You know, my dear, that old Jew who used to shove coal by the railroad. Well, it's his daughter, the oldest one." "Look here! I seized his arm. "How do you know this is a Jewish funeral?" "Oh, that's easy. Because these devils always carry their dead at midnight."

"What do you mean?" I was talking at random. I could not think clearly. "Oh, bairn!" The old man looked up, with a slow, shrewd gaze. "If it weren't you've been drinking, or what's the matter? Surely you know how these Jewish devils fear the bells of the Holy Church in daylight. When the bells begin to ring at daylight, then, I can tell you, these Jews drop a dead body quick and run."

The little procession was passing close to the yellow, flickering circles of light you could see the faces of the three women and the little "doctors." All stared straight ahead. Only the children kept crying drearily—helpless, dazed, frightened. The four men splashed slowly along through the mud; three of them oiled down, carefully picking their steps; the fourth, a slender, dark-faced boy, gazed at the box so close that he stumbled. Suddenly the deep, rich tones of the church bell boomed the hour. At those slow, sepulchral tones the little children stopped crying and shivered.

Conundrums. What does a lamp post become when the lamp is removed? A lamp lighter. What is the difference between a cat and a comma? A cat has claws at the end of her paws, a comma its pause at the end of its clause.

Why are widowers like pirates? They bury their treasures. What is the difference between a soldier and a woman? The one supports his arms, and the other's arms support him. Why should ladies sneezing wet linen remind us of going to church? The bellies are wringing.

We congratulate the Congregation B'nai Yeshurun of New York City, on their having called Rev. Dr. J. L. Magnes as their Rabbi. This is the second oldest Congregation in New York City and among its former Rabbis were Henry Vidaver and Stephen S. Wise. Dr. Magnes has our best wishes for a long and prosperous future.

INDEPENDENCE AMONG THE JEWS

One of the distinguished features in the practice of Judaism in America in which respect it differs from the practice of every other religious belief, lies in the almost perfect independence claimed by the masses concerning their personal conduct. Without in the least surrendering their allegiance to Judaism, they demand as their prerogative to shape their lives and religious views according to their own ideas on that important subject. They will scarcely tolerate the interference of the most sincere of our rabbis, be he ever so learned, and ever so able to expound the law. These independent persons who will not brook the reigns of religious government, usually define their positions as follows: I am an Israelite, but I claim that the sole aim of religion is to be good, and as the performance of ceremonies does not in a way make me a better man, I have done away with all those useless incumbrances. Those who reason in this manner are of two classes. The first class consists of persons of education who claim rather egotistically perhaps, to be the sole judges of their own righteousness and to be able to frame their own code of laws for their personal conduct. While the above declaration in their mouths, may not in individual cases exert any pernicious influence, yet they should know that in practice it must be detrimental, if not fatal to Judaism. It has frequently been attested in the course of history, that large bodies of conscientious and highly learned men have differed radically as to what is right and proper conduct in certain emergencies. Well then, if our educated and conscientious men claim to exercise the prerogative of acting according to their own ideas, biased as they may be by their own surroundings, and still claiming to be Jews, is it not to be easily conceived that in time there will be almost as many modifications of Judaism, as there are adherents to that religion?

The second class who throw off religious restraints, are those who have neither the inclination nor the ability to study religious ethics. Their conduct is according either by a reaction from the subversiveness in which they were kept in the land of their birth, or is the adoption of that species of fashionable atheism that will deny and ridicule, what they have never endeavored to comprehend.

And for the latter class, the former is mainly responsible. By throwing off religious restraints, they encourage by their example others to do likewise, who are too feeble to guide themselves without its aid, on the path of rectitude. If the whole human race were possessed of the virtues of honesty, love and charity, there were no need of various religious creeds and ceremonial forms of religion. But so long as these attributes are not universal, we can see the working of a Divine Providence, in bringing about this clashing of religious beliefs. In this manner the zeal for their own religion, will inspire its votaries to act more carefully up to its behest, and will bind the adherents of the different faiths more closely together.

But without the ceremonial in religion all binding links between coreligionists are lost, and the masses who can not comprehend abstract religious principles, will lose all the ties to their faith, which time and custom has rendered sacred to them.

We do not argue for the retention of all the numerous and many absurd customs which have been associated with Judaism. Many of them became meaningless when Israel ceased to be a nation, and others are merely relics of the ghetto life of the Middle Ages. But reforms should be concerted and no one claiming an allegiance to Judaism, has the right to decide for himself what is necessary to be a consistent Israelite, for such a course would certainly lead to weakness if not anarchy in the camp of Israel.

It is exceedingly gratifying to a large and intelligent body of American Jews and Zionists, to have a scholar of Rabbi Emil G. Hirsch's standing express himself in the following language:

"Even our Zionists are good American citizens. They do not dream of relinquishing their American citizenship; they do not show any greater inclination to disown the laws of this country than do their antipodes, the anti-nationalist Jews residing in this land. Their loyalty to our flag is beyond a doubt." This position the Editor of THE JEWISH TIMES has maintained from the moment that Herzl gave to the world his masterly ideas on Zionism and which we still believe will become more and more popular as they are understood.

The annual convention of District Grand Lodge No. 4, I. O. B. B., will be called to order by Grand President Isaac Swett, Sunday next, at 10 o'clock sharp. The Grand President's Message, Grand Secretary's Report (always a valuable document) and other official documents will be the feature of Sunday morning gathering. In the evening of Sunday, Rev. Dr. Martin A. Meyer, will deliver the oration as Grand Orator. We extend our best wishes to the District Grand Lodge and to the visiting delegates attending the session.

The Cruelty to Animals Bill which has passed second reading in the German Reichstag emphasizes the humane nature of "schetia." This is another anti-Semitic canard about to be negated in convincing fashion by one of the great legislative bodies of the world. The United States is also making heroic efforts in its adoption of the Pure Food Law, and in a little while the Goyim will be satisfying themselves with things Kosher, and our blessed "unsere sente" will eat everything "Trefa."

Rev. Dr. A. J. Messing of Chicago and his daughter Julia (Mrs. Mitchell), accompanied by Rabbi Meyer Messing of Indianapolis, are at the Hotel Oxford, Post and Franklin. The reverend gentlemen have been at Long Beach since the beginning of January and intend to remain two weeks in this city. During their visit they will officiate at the marriage of their nephew, Victor Gruhn, to Miss White of Oakland, which will take place in the next few weeks. From this city Dr. Messing will go to San Antonio, New Orleans, and Montgomery, Ala., staying with Mrs. Joe Lobman, youngest daughter of Dr. A. J. Messing.

To a San Franciscan has fallen the lot to receive at the hands of the Governor of Arizona, rare recognition, because of his philanthropy in that territory. For some years a movement in Arizona has had for its object the erection of a home for those old pioneers who carved out of desert, mountain and rock, one of the most prosperous states of the southwest, and one of the most energetic and persistent workers for this was Gus Heyman, treasurer of the Industrial Corporation of Mexico.

On the completion of the Pioneers' Home, which was accomplished last December, the directors, in honor of the good work done by Mr. Heyman, named room No. 1, the "Gus Heyman Room," and the Governor paid him the honor of naming him as one of the Commissioners of the home. Both of these honors are without precedent in the home for no other room is named after an individual and no other non-resident of the state has been named as commissioner.

On receiving these honors, Mr. Heyman rounded his good work by completely furnishing the room, making it a home of comfort for some old pioneer. The furnishings are the most tasty and durable that Mr. Heyman could secure, the furniture being of Carcassian walnut, and the bedding being of finest quality. In addition to the essentials for comfort he had added luxuries in the way of a fine Turkish rug and adorned the walls with pictures.

This gift is the crowning work of a long series of good deeds done in the territory by Mr. Heyman, whose unostentatious charities and kindnesses have smoothed the paths of many who call Arizona their home. Mr. Heyman is an honored and well known citizen of San Francisco, where his business connections have been of highest order for many years, and his many friends will be pleased to learn of this recognition of his good work.

The Council of Jewish Women held their alternate meeting yesterday at the California Clubhouse. The program was as follows: Violin solos, Miss Elizabeth Dolan, Mrs. H. Jacobson, accompanist; "Prevention of Blindness," Mrs. Andrew Summers Rowan (organizer of reading room and library for the blind); address, "The Condition of the Jews in Russia," Col. Harris Weinstock.

At a meeting of the Clara de Hirsch Beneficial Society, held on Sunday, February 12th, the following officers were installed for the ensuing term: President, D. Cohen; vice-president, Mrs. Frohman; treasurer, Mrs. Kalisky; secretary, H. Zekind; trustees, Mrs. Harris, Mrs. Kahn and Miss Levy; guardian, Mrs. Goldsmith; monitor, Mr. Nathan. The retiring vice-president, Mrs. Zekind, was presented with an elegant marble ornament.

M. Jacobs was a rather easy winner of the Young Men's Hebrew Association cross-country run Sunday, held over a course one mile and a half long through Golden Gate Park. Jacobs, who had a handicap of one minute and forty-five seconds, finished well in front of Victor Marks, who, with the same handicap as Jacobs, took second place in the competition. Jack Diamond, the scratch man, took third honors, coming within a few yards of Marks after a hard tussle in the last few hundred yards. L. Millzner, L. Lustig, L. Macovsky and C. Bolton finished in the order named.

Nine men started over the course and the seven above finished. The first four men to complete the course will be awarded prizes.

Permanent organization of the Young Israel Jewish Educational and Social Club was effected at a well attended meeting in Jefferson Square Hall. T. W. Mellis, who, with Rev. Joseph Simmons, founded the organization, was elected grand president and lecturer. Officers chosen were: President, Jack Lowenstein; vice-president, Louis Stark; secretary, Miss Etta Max; treasurer, Joseph Lowenstein; guard, Morris Riegelhaupt.

An especially fine piece of art work was presented by Miss Helen Arnstein of 2112 Pacific avenue, who has just returned from a trip abroad, to the Museum, Golden Gate Park. The painting, which is entitled, "Off the Coast of Maine," is an admirable marinescape in dun colors which blend in perfect harmony.

A very pleasant surprise party was given to Miss Clara Marks at her home, 2589 Sutter street, by Miss Dora Jacobs and Miss Rose Diamond. The rooms were very prettily decorated with red and white. The evening was spent in singing, dancing and games.

The guests were: Misses Clara Marks, Rose Diamond, Dora Jacobs, Anna Sersensky, Hilda Zimet, Bessie Waxman, Bessie Levy, Amy Lowenthal, Esther Bloom, Ida Finkelstein, Rose Hyman, Ruth Harris, Violet Millas, Miriam Tibias and Gertie Davis; Messrs. Louis Marks, Jack Diamond, Leslie Marcus, Victor Marks, Joe Glassman, Milton Colton, Morris Hepner, Carl Block, Maury Colton, I. Davis, Harry Zimet, Walter Stern, Henry Lapkin, Walter Reinhardt, Sam Jacobs, Will Roth, Lionel Millzner.

The Jeanette Wolf Auxiliary held a whist party on Tuesday afternoon, February 14th, at 2 o'clock, and Thursday evening, February 16th, at 8 o'clock, in the vestry room of the synagogue. Both parties were successful.

A very fine exhibition is being held in Philadelphia of the sculpture and painting by Miss Katherine M. Cohen. The exhibition will remain open at the Plastic Club for the rest of the month. A number of pieces are of specific Jewish interest. Among these, in sculpture, the most ambitious is Rabbi Ben Ezra expounding the Law and handing down Tradition. Others in painting are Passover in Music and Song and the Child and the Seder. Prof. A. A. Michelson and Dr. De Sola Pool, and Dr. Berkowitz. Among the water colors are four studies in a Spanish synagogue.

I. O. B. B.

The Grand Orator, I. O. B. B., Rev. Dr. Martin A. Meyer, will deliver the annual oration Sunday evening at 8 o'clock in the B. B. Hall, to which members and their families and friends are cordially invited. Let the ladies turn out en masse and give the orator a rousing reception.

California Lodge, No. 166, O. B. A., on January 15th had the following officers installed by District Deputy Grand Master Harris Bernard: President, Albert Springer; vice-president, Louis L. Langley; recording and financial secretary, Henry L. Springer; treasurer, Benj. Wacholder; conductor, Morris Silverstein; inside guard, Israel Friedman; outside guard, Morris Green; first trustee, Max Rubenstein; second trustee, Heyman Bloom; third trustee, Max Temmen.

Occidental Lodge, No. 345, I. O. B. B., held a splendid meeting Tuesday evening, when P. G. P. Lucius L. Solomon was welcomed home from attending the conference of the Union of American Hebrew Congregations at New York. Bro. Solomon spoke enthusiastically of the work of the conference and told many things of interest. Arrangements were also made to give Bro. Julius Kahn a hearty welcome home, the honorable gentleman being a member of Occidental Lodge.

The Fruit and Flower Mission held its thirtieth annual meeting recently at 1372 Jackson street, when the following officers and directors were elected:

Miss Elsie Hess, president; Miss Helen Gibbs, first vice-president; Miss Hilda Steinhart, second vice-president; Mrs. F. Mandelbaum, treasurer; Miss Elizabeth E. Cudworth, corresponding secretary; Miss Virginia Gibbs, recording secretary; Miss H. Leszynsky, Miss Belle Armer, Miss Meta Thompson, Miss Miriam Wallis, Mrs. A. Ehrman.

The mission which cares for the needy sick has covered a very wide field during the last year, when 1,689 baskets were delivered to homes and 200 families were provided with Thanksgiving dinners. A daily clinic is maintained and during the last year 1,290 patients were treated.

The last of the winter's series of subscription balls took place last Saturday evening at the St. Francis and so brilliant was the affair that it easily ranks with the most elaborate functions of the season.

These balls, which were inaugurated at the beginning of last winter, have become features of the season's gayety and each succeeding affair has been more brilliantly appointed and the women more handsomely gowned. To vie with the splendor of one of these subscription balls has not yet been attempted. The most beautiful gowns and most wonderful array of jewels seen at any function during the season are in evidence, the affair Saturday night being a fancy dress, and the matter of costume was its characteristic feature. They were unique, original and of surpassing beauty.

The Colonial ballroom where the affair took place, was appropriately and artistically decorated for the occasion, and a number of brilliant dinners preceded the dance. The patronesses of the ball, who were to a great measure responsible for its success, were Mrs. I. W. Hellman, Mrs. Leon Sloss, Mrs. William Fries, Mrs. A. Stern, Mrs. M. Heller, Mrs. Alexander Ehrman, Mrs. Leon Greenbaum, Mrs. Albert Ehrman, Mrs. Marcus Koshland, Mrs. Walter Stetheimer, Mrs. J. Levinson and Mrs. Edward Brandenstein.

Mrs. David Henderson and Miss Sarita Henderson gave a musical-tea at the Fairmont on Thursday afternoon, and numerous lesser affairs punctuated the intervals between, making the week one of unprecedented rush.

Judge Max Meyerhart has been elected the 29th successive time Worshipful Master of Cherokee Lodge of F. and A. M., at Macon, Ga.

Simon Hahn has been appointed Justice of the Second Criminal Court, of Newark, N. J. Judge Hahn is a nephew of the late Rev. Dr. Adolph Huebsch.

Leon Zoltokoff, who for six years was assistant state's attorney of Cook County, Chicago, and formerly editor of the Chicago Jewish Record, has accepted the editorship of the New York Jewish Daily News. Mr. Zoltokoff is 44 years old, and has lived in Chicago ever since he came to this country from Russia twenty-four years ago. He is grand master of the Order of Knights of Zion, and is one of the directors of the Chicago Hebrew Institute, which gave a banquet in his honor before he left for New York.

Mrs. A.—"I hear that Belle is back from Europe and that she looks fully ten years younger."

Mrs. B.—"Yes. Really, my dear, she should have paid duty on herself as a work of art."

"How did she strengthen her weak lungs?"

"By telling everybody about 'em."

He—"I see your husband has bowed to the inevitable."

She—"Oh, of course! He bows to anybody!"

Mrs. Rangles—"I am always outspoken."

Mr. Rangles—"And I am generally outtalked."

SUNSET BY THE SEA

No artist can paint the living picture of nature. No orator can clothe her beauties with the robes of eloquence or add new charms to her grandeur. Musicians may enchant the heart with emotions of pathos and awaken the dormant heart with hope and rest, but nature holds the key which unlocks her portals and sends forth the melodies which enrapture the world with Joy and Peace, and thrill the spirit with reverence and the benedictions of immortality. The sublimity of the thunders, as they roll over mountain peaks and reach the depths of oceans, causes humanity to bow before the majesty of that invisible Power which controls all things.

There are many scenes in nature which bear us away from all that is artificial and illusive. There are so many attractions throughout the realms of sky, sea and land, which are ever present to instruct and win our admiration! Indeed, the whole universe is one stupendous panorama, ever moving and revolving around some grand center from whence all creation came. Back of it all there may be Life and mind.

Among the living pictures, we can gaze upon the "Sunset by the Sea" as expressive of that wonderful exhibition of power and wisdom, everywhere revealed in the on-moving ages till we reach the sublime heights of eternity.

How many times have we gazed upon the sunsets by the sea, the great ocean of waters, held by some unseen power. Above the vast expanse the sun in the high heavens dwells in the temple of his glory and blesses the world with Light and Life. In the early morn he sends the white steed of light to proclaim his coming. In the evening he passes down beyond the sea, but leaves the halo of his glory on the rippling waves; the tints of fire, of purple and gold linger in his pathway over the waters, while all the sea flushes back the colors of the rainbow gleaming with diamonds, set with rubies and pearls. The sapphire and the emerald blend in the group of precious stones leading the spirit back to the vision of that city of God, whose gates are of pearl and whose twelve foundations are gems gathered for the paradise, where the river of life flows from the Eternal throne. Truly the sunsets have their inspirations, and we are exalted in our imagination.

"A woman," says a Philosopher, "will wait an hour for a slow clerk to bring her three cents' change, while just outside the shop the taxicab is registering about a cent a minute."

Hewitt—"Do you think long hair makes a man look intellectual?"

Jewett—"Not when his wife finds it on his coat; it makes him look foolish."

Brown—"So she has given you the chuck, eh? Well, well, cheer up! There are other fishes in the sea."

Jones—"B— but this one's nibbled all my bait."

"Now, witness, your master lives in morbid trepidation, doesn't he?"

"No, sir; he lives in the suburbs."

Tutter—"That dog of yours seems to be very frisky, Miss Clara."

Miss Pinkerly—"Yes, he is simply delighted. Just after you came pa took off his muzzle."

WOMAN AND HER PROBLEMS THE GOOD MOTHER

By DR. MADISON C. PETERS

Madison C. Peters

Our American homes with their old-fashioned mothers made our republic peerless among nations. The German Empire is great because German mothers are good. England is mighty because British mothers are pious. The real secret of a nation's greatness is a sanctified motherhood.

It is a fact worthy of note that the classics do not place high esteem upon the mothers of those periods, and this may be the reason of their defective civilization. Even Shakespeare omitted to portray an ideal mother. His fathers are a well known and touching group. His wives and daughters are ideal, but the mothers are not only singularly few in number, but do not possess the more commendable qualities which we might expect. Juliet has a mother, to whose heart of stone she appeals in vain. Hamlet's mother brings a pain to his distressed mind.

Richter is quoted as having said: "Unhappy the man whose mother does not make all mothers interesting." What are Raphael's Madonnas but the shadow of mother's love fixed in a permanent outline? If the world was lost through woman, she alone can save it.

Mothers, your trust is fraught with everlasting issues. You foreordain the eternal destiny of the child. By a holy example live into it a divine life. Napoleon realized the fostering influence of home when he said, "What France wants is good mothers, and you may be sure then that France will have good sons." God has put into the hands of parents, at their own hearthstones, a power greater than that which presidents, kings and queens wield and which issue either in the weal or woe of their children.

Women sigh for fame. They would be sculptors and chisel forms of beauty from the cold stone, to fill the world with the praises of their genius; or they would be poets and write songs to awaken a nation. But is any work an immortal life laid in her hands to shape for its destiny? Is the writing of any poem as great a work as training the powers of the soul, crowned with the sapphire glow of immortality, into harmony with God? Yet, how shall I say it sorrowfully enough, there are women, increasingly large in number, who regard the duties of motherhood as tasks too obscure and commonplace for their hands and the training of the child is often left to a stranger and ignorant hireling.

Our women come to church to draw the inspiration of religion for their daily duties and then turn traitor to the first of all fidelities. If every mother could catch a glimpse of the future and see the possibilities open to her when a babe is placed in her bosom to be nursed and trained, she would be convinced that the work was worthy of her best powers and would commit to no other hands the sacred trust given to her.

We are drifting away from the home. Our country wants virtuous citizens and honest rulers and they must come from the old-fashioned homes. What this great nation needs to-day is mothers who shall realize that the home is the mightiest institution on the earth and that in its secrecy they are determining through their children what the future shall be. If you could lift the veil and catch a glimpse of this momentous future your soul would be fired with a patriotism which would lay the child upon the altar of God, with a devotion that would make the home memories so tender, so precious, and so sacred, that each life that goes out of your doors would carry a blessing with it wherever it went.

When we reflect that in this land alone there are more than 6,000,000 mothers, with millions of infants to be molded by their plastic hands and quenchless love, the prayer rises spontaneously from our hearts that God would bless the homes and mothers of our land. Our country's hope lies in this great element of power.

Who are our extraordinary men to-day? Are they the men whose mothers' heaven was an opera box, who ate arsenic to improve the complexion and to whom the Ten Commandments were an inconvenience? The kings among men to-day, our distinguished statesmen, our great writers, our learned lawyers, our skilled physicians, our eloquent preachers and merchant princes, are all sons whose mothers did spin and weave and knit, who were workers at home and who knelt every day before God's door of power.

GENTILE TO ORGANIZE ZION MOVEMENT

A letter which may be of interest to Zionists appeared in the New York Herald last week, and was cabled over to the Sun at the same time, in which the writer proposes to organize a Zionist movement among Gentiles. The letter reads as follows:

"I propose, subject to obtaining the necessary support, forming a British, French, German, Roumanian, Russian, Turkish and United States Zion League, the object of which will be the settlement of Jews in Palestine, Syria and the Euphratic Valley. It will be an exclusively Gentile organization, but will co-operate, if desirable, with recognized Jewish leaders.

"I propose to settle Jews on the land in groups of four or more families to encourage manufacturers and general trading, to build hotels and railways, and to have the independence of this Jewish state guaranteed by the above seven Powers.

"I shall be glad to hear from those who are prepared to support such movement."

Representative of the London Chamber of Commerce.

THEATRES

ORPHEUM

The bill for next week at the Orpheum certainly reaches the top notch of vaudeville.

Homer Lind's production of a condensed version of Offenbach's grand opera "The Tales of Hoffman," in which Miss Helena Frederick will star is a most important departure in the realm of vaudeville this season, and one that is attracting wide attention among those who have at heart the improvement of musical taste in America. Miss Frederick, who sings the very arduous role of Antonia, has for several years been recognized as one of the most brilliant sopranos in this country. Arthur F. Burckly, the Hoffman, has many successes to his credit in operatic tenor roles and the other characters are in competent hands.

"Just Landed," a very clever Irish skit, which is in reality a miniature musical comedy, will introduce the gifted and popular artist, Walter Lawrence and Lillian Fitzgerald.

Welch, Mealy and Montrose will present a farcical skit called "Play Ball," which illustrates the humorous side to the strife for victory between the New York "Giants" and the Chicago "Cubs."

Boudini Brothers, who have been styled "the wizards of the accordion" by musical critics, will be heard in favorite selections.

Next week will be the last of Mignonette Kokin, Redford and Winchester and Galetti's Simian Circus. It will also conclude the engagement of the beautiful and highly gifted young actress, Miss Fannie Ward, in her successful comedy, "An Unlucky Star."

ALCAZAR

"The Battle," adapted by Cleveland Moffett from his novel similarly titled, will be the Alcazar's offering throughout the coming week, with Bertram Lytell in the role of John F. Haggerton, originated by Wilton Lackaye and starred in by him during the past two seasons. By the Eastern critics it has been pronounced a really great play, because of its intelligent treatment of the tenement-house problem, its logical exposition of socialism, its pretty love story and its clean and clever portrayal.

There are four acts in the play, and in the first three are shown the improvement in the tenement gradually brought about through Haggerton's teaching of the inmates. The transformation from squalor to comfort is cleverly conveyed by scenic as well as oral means.

All the Alcazar favorites are in the cast, Evelyn Vaughan being nicely placed as the trained nurse and Viola Leach as a tenement house type.

SAVOY

"The biggest entertainment under roof with the exception of the New York Hippodrome," can be applied to "The Midnight Sons," the mammoth musical production which Lew Fields and the Shuberts will open at the Savoy Theater for two weeks commencing Sunday, February 19th, with George W. Monroe in his original creation of "Pansy Burns."

"The Midnight Sons" enjoyed a run of 36 weeks at the Broadway Theater, New York, which is said to be the longest engagement of any musical play ever seen in the metropolis. "The Midnight Sons" is known as a "musical moving picture in eight films." It does not rely upon pretty girls and tuneful music to carry it to success, although it possesses these necessary requisites, in addition to maze upon maze of fine costumes, a half dozen stupendous scenes, including a real opera house with an audience of 500 people, a Pullman train in motion, a stag dinner with 150 diners, etc., a special vaudeville company which is carried for the sole purpose of furnishing entertainment in the theater scene, a pony ballet, and a dozen other features.

There are 30 musical numbers scattered throughout the two acts and eight scenes, and in the words of the dramatic reviewer, "the interest is sustained until the finish."

COLUMBIA

The performance of "The Arcadians" at the Columbia Theater last Monday night convinced theatergoers of this city that the success this play has won both in this country and abroad, is most deserving and those who have been fortunate enough to have already seen this play, will bear testimony, that the production is quite the best offered in this city within many seasons.

"The Arcadians" has every element that goes to make up the well nigh perfect musical comedy. The chorus is a delightful deviation from the regulation musical comedy chorus. They are smiling lookers, every one, and each possessing a good singing voice, which is the secret of the splendid harmony in the finales and chorus numbers. The production is made in the very elaborate scale imaginable, and each of the three acts is mounted with taste and sumptuousness. The orchestra, which is directed over by Mr. Selli Simonson, gives a perfect rendition of Composer Monckton's delightful and dainty gems. The second and last week will begin Sunday night.

We are not surprised at the action of Herr Ernst von Possart, the distinguished German actor, in emphasizing the Jewish role in his repertoire during his present American engagement. Last week he appeared in the characters of Rabbi Sichel in Erckmann-Chatrian's "Freund Fritz," and Shylock in Shakespeare's "The Merchant of Venice." This week he spoke the lines of Nathan, in the immortal Lessing's perennially fresh "Nathan the Wise," with that distinction which one anticipates from so great an artist. Herr von Possart did well to exhibit the Jew that Shakespeare and the others drew to the public gaze; even the ungrateful part of Shylock he was able to surround with dignity and genuine pathos all his own. That his present American tour is an artistic and pecuniary success goes without saying. This proves, if proof were needed, that our taste for the truly artistic in the theater has not left us. But it takes a great Jewish actor, like Possart or the late Adolf von Sonnenthal, to evoke it.

"Not at all. The snub is because they didn't keep it there."

A Western bookseller wrote to a house in Chicago asking that a dozen copies of Canon Farrar's "Seekers after God" be shipped to him at once. Within two days he received this reply by telegraph: "No seekers after God in Chicago or New York. Try New Orleans."

THE SLEEPY SONG
As soon as the fire burns red and low
And the house upstairs is still
She sings me a queer little sleepy song
Of sheep that go over the hill.

The good little sheep run quick and soft.
Their colors are gray and white.
They follow their leader nose to tail,
For they must go home by night.

And when they get to the top of the hill
They quietly slip away,
But one runs over and one comes next—
Their colors are red white and gray.

And over they go, and over they go,
And over the top of the hill
The good little sheep run quick and soft
And the house upstairs is still.

And one slips over and one comes next
The good little, gray little sheep,
Watch how the fire burns red and low,
And she says that I fall asleep.

The defects of the mind, like those of the face, grow worse as we grow old.

LOS ANGELES NEWS

[I. R. Rubin, Special Correspondent]

Miss Miriam Kamp of this city is visiting friends and relatives in Des Moines, Iowa. She expects to go on to Chicago, and will be away from Los Angeles for several months.

Mr. and Mrs. Hyman Levin of Pueblo, Colo., well known residents of that city, have just arrived in Los Angeles and are at the Percival. They expect to remain here several weeks and will go to San Diego and San Francisco before returning home.

Mrs. D. Siegel of the Hotel Germain entertained her guests delightfully last Sunday evening with another popular dancing party. A few outside guests were invited.

Mrs. Lillian Burkhart Goldsmith, who has appeared on the local Orpheum stage for the past two weeks, has just completed her engagement here in Mrs. Madge Clover's sketch, "What Every Woman Wants." After resting a week at her home in this city the popular actress will continue on the Orpheum circuit for a number of weeks.

A business meeting of Los Angeles Lodge, No. 487, I. O. B. B., was held last Tuesday evening at the new lodge home at 711 West Seventeenth street. Important business was transacted. Plans were discussed for a minstrel show which the lodge will give in the very near future for the benefit of its building fund.

Mrs. Jacob Gelb of New York, who passes her winters in Los Angeles, entertained on Sunday with a dinner party at the Hotel Lankershim as a courtesy to her friends. Pink carnations were used in decorating the table and corsage bouquets of violets were given as favors. Covers were laid for Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Finkle, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Joos, Mr. and Mrs. O. H. Kiefer, Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Woodward and Mr. Door. Mrs. Gelb will leave in May for Europe, where she will pass the summer.

The local B'nai B'rith lodge will hold another formal dance on Tuesday evening, February 21st, at 8:30 o'clock. Requests for invitations may be sent to the financial secretary. The social committee has announced that so long as these monthly dances appeal to the younger Jewish set they will be continued in the lodge hall.

The Willing Workers of Congregation Sinai gave a valentine ball Thursday evening of last week at the Goldberg-Bosley Hall, Sixteenth and Flower street, which was a very charming affair. Mrs. M. Brick, Mrs. Carl Sterne, Mrs. P. Haber and Mrs. Eugene Marcus were in charge of the arrangements. The affair was for the benefit of the Hebrew school which is conducted at the synagogue, and many friends of the institution were in attendance. The idea of the valentine season was carried out in the hall decorations and the prizes were in accord with the decorative scheme, while valentine favors were given in connection with one of the dances. Officers of the Willing Workers are: President, Mrs. Ellis Brockow; vice-president, Mrs. Carl Stearne; secretary, Mrs. Max Cohn; financial secretary, Mrs. Ellis Cohn; treasurer, Mrs. A. Kornblum.

Los Angeles Section of the National Council of Jewish Women entertained at a bridge party Thursday afternoon of last week at the Women's Clubhouse, 940 South Figueroa street, for the benefit of the Jewish settlement work in this city. Elaborate preparations had been made and 150 persons responded to the invitations, players being seated at thirty-one tables. The clubhouse rooms were decorated handsomely, and the beautiful gowns worn by the women added much to the attractiveness of the scene. Assisting in entertaining were Miss Elsie Baruch, Miss Lucile Hellman, Miss Frieda Goldschmidt, Miss Alice Schwob, Miss Lucile Polaski, Miss Emma Polaski, Miss Blanche Myers, Miss Amy Hellman, Miss Florence Marks, Miss Rosetta Polaski and Miss Florence Newmark. Quite a sum was realized from the affair and the ladies are very much encouraged.

The newly installed president of Los Angeles Lodge, B'nai B'rith, Isaac O. Levy, has announced the selection of the following committees for the ensuing year: House committee, Joshua H. Marks, chairman; Louis Gans, Julius Gans, Archie Goldflam, J. Urdang, Literary committee, M. B. Silberberg, chairman; Julius Salmonson, I. R. Rubin, M. Lowenstein and Maurice Salzman. Social committee, Maurice Salzman, chairman; Joshua H. Marks, Archie Goldflam, Irving S. Metzler and Stanley Blunenthal.

Dropped from the Fast Express; or, A Daughter's Sacrifice.

A capital love story, by Fred M. White, full of daring adventure and bewildering mystery. The heroine, daughter of an English noble whose debts induce her to consent to marry an adventurer masquerading as a millionaire. The villain has his would-be victim's brother in his power and the sister's magnificent effort to save her brother is most thrilling reading. The plot keeps one guessing from first to last. No skipping is required to keep up the interest, for there is something doing on every page, and the reader is kept on the qui vive to learn what the next page will disclose. Speeding automobiles and the fast express play important parts in the exciting plots and counterplots of the story. Little Kate Mayfield, the nemesis of the wealthy profligate who would marry the heroine with or without her consent, wins the admiration of the reader from the start and holds it to the finish. High life in social circles and in a palace car on the fast express is depicted with such dash and vivacity as to make the veriest sleepyhead sit up and take notice. In short, the book is all story and no moralizing—just simply something interesting to read and to relish. (Handsome paper cover in colors, 25c; cloth bound, inlaid colored paper cover, 75c. ## TURKEY

The chief rabbi of Turkey has been appointed a member of the Turkish Senate.

Chief Rabbi Nahoum is thirty-eight years of age, and was born in Magnesia, near Smyrna. In his youth his parents sent him to Tiberias, where he learned Arabic, which he knows very well. He next studied the Talmud, and later entered a government school in Smyrna. He then proceeded to Constantinople to study law. Being desirous of entering the Jewish ministry, he obtained, through the good offices of the late Grand Rabbi Zadoc Kahn, admission to the Rabbinical Seminary in Paris, afterwards studying at the School of Oriental Languages. Having obtained his diploma as rabbi, he entered the service of the Alliance Israelite and went to Constantinople as teacher in the seminary there and history teacher at some of the elementary schools of the Alliance. For some time he was teacher of French at the Superior School of Military Engineering. He headed an expedition to the Falashas in 1908. In August of that year he was elected locum tenens of the Turkish chief rabbinate, being appointed chief rabbi in January, 1909. He has been decorated by the Sultan with the Order of the Medjidieh, and great honor and deference have been paid him from time to time by ministers and other officers of state.

JEWS ON THE CONGO

The alien immigration officers of Bulawayo, South Africa, are very active just now. The attorney-general refuses to recognize Yiddish as a European language, notwithstanding the practice at the Cape. It will probably be necessary to bring a test case. It is very refreshing to note that anti-Jewish feeling does not extend—as yet, at all events—to the Congo Free State, which is becoming a favorite spot for immigrants. Jews should colonize Portuguese West Africa inland from Lobita Bay. The country has a great future before it, but it is empty to-day.

Berlin, January 15th.—Professor George Jelinek, of Heidelberg University, died suddenly of heart disease last Friday at the age of sixty. Professor Jelinek was the son of the celebrated Rabbi Adolph Jelinek, of Vienna. He was born in Leipsic and in 1874 enlisted in the Austrian army, where he served four years. He studied in Leipsic, Vienna and Heidelberg. He was professor of jurisprudence in the University of Vienna, later in Basle, Switzerland, and for the past ten years he occupied the chair of international jurisprudence at Heidelberg. He was the author of several works on international law.

RUSSIA'S INSULT TO JEWISH-AMERICANS

By Dr. C. H. Parhurst in the N. Y. Evening Journal

It would seem that all American citizens, whether native born or foreign born, and of whatever religious faith, must experience a sympathetic response to the address delivered by Mr. Louis Marshall and to the resolution presented by ex-Attorney General Simon W. Rosendale at the closing session of the Hebrew Union.

If we are native Americans it is well enough for us sometimes to be distinctly conscious of having originated in the United States. And if we are Gentiles it is eminently proper for us, on occasion, to realize that fact very definitely.

But there are times when neither national distinctions nor religious distinctions ought to intrude, and the present is one of those times, in view of the violation of treaty rights which every American citizen of Hebrew blood suffers on attempting to enter upon Russian territory.

By treaty engagement, made almost three-quarters of a century ago, every American citizen is entitled to live in Russia and do business there, and yet for nearly half of that time our Hebrew citizens have been indiscriminately denied that right.

And what we ought all of us to remember is that every individual instance of such denial has been a breach of treaty and a cold blooded insult to the American government. Our protests have availed nothing. The dishonor nationally put upon us by Russia continues.

The demand made by the above-mentioned resolution is none too exacting—that our government be urged to terminate existing treaties with Russia till they can be replaced under such conditions and under such guarantees as shall comport with the dignity of the American people.

And it is not only to the Hebrews as citizens, but to them also as men that the insult is done. In dishonoring their manhood a stigma is put upon manhood in general, and thus an affront committed upon the whole of us. In the blow that is dealt upon them we are all struck, and thirty years are a good while for us to lie under the lash of a semi-barbarian country.

In allowing ourselves thus to be defrauded of treaty rights our country is sacrificing some of the grounds of its self-respect. By right all citizens stand on an equality before the government, but government practically denies that equality when it insists that our treaty with Russia shall be observed with respect to Gentiles and not with respect to Hebrews.

The Hebrews have a righteous grievance, and all of us Gentiles ought to feel that fact with so keen an intensity as to make their cause our own cause and stand with them in their effort to induce the President and Congress to take some action that shall be no milder, at any rate, than that which is called for by Mr. Rosendale's resolution.

Another daughter, Bettina, who married a cousin, Baron Albert Salomon de Rothschild, head of the Vienna house, died in 1892.

In our public schools, in our mercantile establishments, in our financial institutions, Jews or the children of Jews have made a place hardly second to that of the native Americans. It is not with this race that we have to expect antagonism, rivalry, the opposition of an inconvenient sentiment. Wherever the Jewish people have found a foothold in the universal dispersion of that race, it has been through assimilation, adaptation, the exercise of those virtues of citizenship and those qualities of industry which command respect and assure success. So we accept the omen. With the youngest of all the nations of the world, this most ancient of the historic survivals finds its congenial ally.—Jackson, Mich., Patriot.

A letter of Israel Zangwill to a Jewish society in Salonica, printed in the Jewish Review, under the caption, "Advice to the Ottoman Jews," will be very unwelcome in Zionist circles. The gist of his remarks is that the Zionists by their senseless agitation, which can have no tangible results, are creating trouble for the Jews in Turkey. He declares to be amused at the attitude of the Ottoman Jews, who are embarrassed by a movement which is already dead. He ridicules the Zionists whose idea of getting a country is to talk about it at a safe distance. He finds it inconceivable that the Jews, who form at best twelve per cent of the population of Palestine, and hold only two per cent of the soil, expect to gain control of the whole country. The greatest surprise in his statement is that Zangwill declares that the unity of the Jews of the world can only be a religious unity, and that Judaism since the fall of Jerusalem, has been preserved by its religion, and while race sympathy and forced isolation have co-operated as preservatives, the religious factors have been so overwhelmingly predominant, that the others may be left out of count. Particularly significant is his statement that intermarriage is not threatening the existence of Judaism, but is a symptom of its decay. One remembers how, not so long ago, Zangwill ridiculed the late Lord Swaythling, who prayed three times a day for the restoration of the Holy Land, and would not move a finger to bring about the realization of his prayers, or that he appealed to give the land without a people to the people without a land, and that on another occasion he said there was no alternative but to go to Rome and kiss the Pope's slipper, or to go to Jerusalem. New Testament and Talmud alike give the repentant sinner a higher place than the righteous who has never fallen.
